All Consumer Prices Frozen For 60 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has frozen all consumer prices for 60 days, jolting an inflation-plagued economy with a surprise shock treatment while buying time to build a tougher wage-price control system.

Wages were not frozen by the President. Neither were rents, interest and dividends or raw agricultural products at the farm level.

But Nixon told the nation in a television-radio address Wednesday night that all other prices paid for goods and services during the next two months cannot exceed prices that prevailed in the June 1-8 base period.

Congressional action is required for proposed export controls and other supporting elements of the President's fourth attempt in two years to curb inflationary pressures. But the price freeze went into effect Wednesday night when he signed an executive order.

Unless lifted sooner, the freeze expires Aug. 12. By then, Nixon said, he will have ready "a new and more effective system of controls" to replace Phase 3—a limited system which his economic advisers admitted was a failure.

Phase 4 controls, Nixon said, "will involve tighter standards and more mandatory compliance procedures than under Phase 3" and will include special measures to stabilize retail food and gasoline prices.

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Democrats were less enthusiastic. "I'm fearful that it may not be broad enough," said House Speaker Carl Albert.

Leading economists were split, too.

"Too little, too late, too complicated, too political," said noted economist Eliot Janeway.

"It's a definite improvement," said top University of Pennsylvania economist, Dr. Lawrence R. Klein.

Nixon told the nation in his 15-minute address from the Oval Office that the economy is strong—"we are in the middle of one of the biggest, strongest booms in our history."

But for a variety of reasons, he said, "prices are going up at unacceptably high rates and the great part of this increase is due to rising food prices."

He then outlined his price freeze as part of what he called "bold yet sensible policies to meet our temporary problems." Other elements of the President's program include:

—An urgent request for Congress "to give me the new and more-flexible authority needed" to impose export controls on products such as grain and animal feedstuffs. "In allocating the products of America's farms between markets abroad and those in the United States, we must put the American consumer first," he said.

—A presidential order for the Internal Revenue Service to immediately audit the books of companies that raised their prices more than 1.5 per cent during Phase 3. If the increases weren't justified, Nixon said "the prices will be rolled back."

—A request that Congress allow him to eliminate tariffs on imported meat and other scarce items such as plywood and zinc, plus authority to sell more surplus commodities from government stockpiles.

—A promise of new farm legislation to put "high production ahead of high prices," a threat to veto any spending bill that exceeds his proposed budget, and a plea that Congress quickly clear the way for the Alaska pipeline to combat oil and gasoline shortages.

Nixon said he didn't freeze wages because they hadn't been a significant cause of price increases. They will remain for now under Phase 3 guidelines which generally call for pay boosts to be held to 5.5 per cent a year.

But officials made clear that wage controls are forthcoming in Phase 4, which Nixon said "will recognize the need for wages and prices to be treated consistently with one another."

In recent months it became increasingly clear that Phase 3 wasn't checking inflation. Consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 9.2 per cent during the first four months of the year while food prices shot upward at an annual rate of 25.4 per cent.

"Everybody admits Phase 3 was a failure," Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz conceded at a news conference Wednesday night. "Let's not argue about that."

'Homework' Apparent

Department Heads Prepared For Council Budget Hearings

It was apparent that department heads meeting Wednesday evening with the City Council had done their "homework" concerning budget requests.

The meeting, technically of the finance and taxes committee but with Mayor Jerry Jones, City Clerk Ralph Dedrick and three other councilmen in attendance, was held in Dedrick's office and included conversation with representatives of several city departments.

Discussion was routine and no obstacles to any budget requests were encountered. Present for half-hour periods were William Miller, chief of police; Willis Jabas, fire chief; Bill Burkholder, president of the Airport Board; and City Engineer Robert Cunningham who was on hand to answer questions about budget requests for the street and alley, and sewer and sanitation departments.

The $406,050 request from the police department is primarily made up of scheduled salary increases and four new civilian, female dispatchers to be employed after the department moves into the new city hall. Miller explained that some of the budget is carryover from items allowed last year that haven't yet been delivered and therefore haven't been paid for.

George Dugan Jr., chairman of the finance and taxes committee, asked why the four new employees would be listed as "non-police" personnel. Miller noted that including them in the merit system would require complete alteration of the size requirements for police, and added that as non-police employees they would come under a lower wage schedule.

There was some disagreement, mainly between Miller and Jones, about whether the police records clerk, who also performs various other office and clerical duties, should be paid a premium over the salaries of field officers, the current policy. Nothing was settled, however, and Jones commented at the end of the discussion that he was just expressing his opinion and that the final decision is in the hands of the council. Miller maintained that the extra training necessary to handle records and police files should earn extra pay. Jones said an officer on patrol should not earn less than an individual remaining in the station doing clerical work.

The $359,095 request submitted by the fire department doesn't represent any personnel increases, Jabas said. He pointed out that the council might begin consideration of the purchase of a new hook and ladder truck sometime in the next two years. He explained that a recent estimate on the department's hook and ladder vehicle indicated three more years of satisfactory service could be obtained from it and that it takes approximately two years for delivery of a new truck.

Burkholder said the airport's $37,706 request, more than $12,000 higher than last year's allotment, includes an additional employee for six months of the year to assist with mowing work, a new tractor to be used in snow removal and mowing, and increased electricity charges. It was indicated at the end of the session that the airport would probably need more funds, than were requested to adequately cover all expenses expected in conjunction with using the new runway.

Burkholder said airport acreage has tripled and that the runway is a 300 per cent addition, requiring the extra snow removal apparatus.

Cunningham said the street and alley department budget request of $639,544 includes two additional equipment operators as well as a greater work schedule and somewhat higher materials prices. Also, some figures listed in the budget request reflect carryovers from last year for incomplete projects or undelivered items.

Cunningham said the sanitation department request entails no additional personnel, while the sewer department request includes a new laboratory technician. The technician will take daily samples at each treatment plant, test them and prepare the required monthly reports. The work is currently done by the plant operators, who must take time out from other duties.

Contractual work will be increased as the result of surveys and site tests for the benefit of sewer districts on the south side of the city, Cunningham explained.

The building and grounds figure remains tentative but does include projected work at the city garage. Also discussed was

Firemen Question Mandatory Physicals

The present wage dispute between the Pettis County Court and county Firefighters Local 2228 may have affected two recent decisions by the court, the union representatives here contend.

The decisions were discussed by the court and firefighters Robert Paxton and Howard Teague, both Local 2228 officials, at a meeting Wednesday morning.

Specifically, the firefighters asked the court why the judges recently decided to impose mandatory physical examinations on the six-man fire department and why Ronnie Ollison was recently promoted to serve as acting fire chief.

Paxton said, "It has been rumored that the physicals are a way to dissolve the union." The firefighters' union was formed about a month ago with three of the present six firefighters as members.

The officials said the minimum requirement for union membership is three employees. Besides Paxton and Teague, the other union member of the six employees is Robert Sisemore, the fire chief who is presently recuperating from injuries he sustained in an accident, the officials said. Paxton said since Sisemore probably could not pass such a physical, the union faces the threat of becoming dissolved.

"None of us oppose the idea of a yearly physical," Paxton said, "but it's the idea behind it we don't like."

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said the court decided to make the yearly physical mandatory "because the city does it that way." Walch denied that the court took the action "for the expressed purpose of dissolving the union."

Western District Judge John Bluhm agreed with Walch that the court is not trying to suppress the union. "I don't have a thing against unions, but I don't want troublemakers or insubordination," he said Thursday. He would not elaborate.

Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong declined to comment.

On the other issue, the firefighters asked the court why the judges appointed Ollison acting fire chief even though Paxton and Teague had more seniority on the force, they said.

Paxton said appointing Ollison as chief was a "slant" against him and Teague. Paxton said Ollison has less than one-year's firefighting experience, while he has more than 12 year's experience and Teague two years.

Ollison recently was appointed by the court as acting fire chief to replace George (Chick) Brown, who had replaced Sisemore

Critics Vow To Push Bomb Cutoff Attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of the Nixon administration's Southeast Asia policy vowed today to push ahead with attempts to cut off funds for U.S. bombing of Cambodia despite Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's appeal for "a finite amount of time" to achieve a new agreement there.

And Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he has reached a "personal decision" to drop support of the bombing after the end of June. He said that deadline provides "a period of time that I think necessary to insure that the agreements to end all foreign military activity are being implemented by all parties."

Scott's statement, a culmination of a six-month swing against U.S. military activity, indicated he will stop his support of the bombing even if the North Vietnamese continue the fighting in Cambodia.

Several senators said after an hour-long closed session with Kissinger on the new Indochina peace agreement reached in Paris Wednesday that he made clear the administration intends to continue its current policy, including the bombing, in an effort to reach a Cambodia agreement.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, sponsor of a broad amendment to cut off funds for all U.S. military actions throughout Indochina, said Kissinger told the senators the administration needs "a finite amount of time" to work out a Cambodian agreement.

Church said he would push for adoption of his proposal, attached to a State Department authorization bill currently before the Senate.

The President's national security adviser briefed members of the Senate on the new agreements.

Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho joined Wednesday with representatives of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government in signing an agreement to strengthen the original cease-fire reached last Jan. 27.

The latest accord includes 14 points and provides for a cease-fire in South Vietnam effective midnight Thursday. It comes after private talks between Kissinger and Tho conducted over the past month in Paris.

Clouds Block Shots Over Western U.S.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 1 astronauts made the final earth resources photo pass of their mission today, but found much of their picture-taking plans blocked by clouds over the western United States.

As astronauts Paul J. Weitz, Charles Conrad Jr. and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, worked in space on the 21st day of their 28-day mission, high-ranking space officials met here to decide if the "fix-anything guys" of Skylab 1 should tackle another space walk repair job next week.

A decision was expected late in the day. The photo run started at the coast of Oregon and continued over several Western states, ending as the spacecraft crossed the Texas coast and went on over Mexico and Central America.

Over Central and South America, the astronauts shot photos of volcanoes. Scientists hope to use data from today's Texas photo pass to study soil salinity and insect infestation in the croplands of the lower Rio Grande Valley. Clouds blocked much of the geologic photo studies planned for California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico on the final Skylab 1 picture-taking run.

The astronauts got up 45 minutes earlier than scheduled today. They plan to retire early tonight in the first step of preparation for their return to earth next week.

Meanwhile, high-ranking space agency officials meet to evaluate the need for a fourth space-walk repair effort.

The point to be decided is whether Skylab needs another sun shade. The astronauts installed one parasol-like shade the day after their May 25 launch. But experts are concerned that orange nylon material in the parasol may fade and rot in the intense sunlight of space.

A second shade, which resembles a window curtain and is deployed on two poles, is aboard Skylab, and the astronauts are trained in setting it up.

One space walk already is scheduled for next Wednesday. Kerwin is to remove film from a telescope camera system outside the space craft.

If officials decide the second shade is needed, the astronauts will install it during another space walk on Wednesday.

Move To New City Hall Is Set Back

The date for moving City Hall records, equipment and furniture into the new Municipal Building has been set back to June 28, Mayor Jerry Jones announced Thursday.

Jones said the move was made from the original June 21 date at the recommendation of architect Don Buller and City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison, who conducted a complete inspection of the new building Wednesday.

Garrison Thursday said the recommendation was made "because of a lack of certain materials that have not yet arrived." Among these items, Garrison said, were acoustical ceiling tiles, lighting fixtures and elevator equipment.

However, it was reported Thursday morning by a spokesman for the Dean Construction Co., the building's general contractor, that work was progressing on the ceiling tile installation because Bob Estill, owner of Able Acoustics Inc., Raytown, had personally picked up the necessary tiles from suppliers in Wichita and Topeka.

"We couldn't afford to wait any longer on getting the tiles shipped," Estill later said. "I've had the stuff on order for five months and we couldn't wait any longer."

Regarding the elevator equipment, Buller Wednesday indicated that numerous attempts have been made lately to obtain the elevator doors and cab from the Rafiner Elevator Co., Kansas City, which was awarded the contract to supply the machine. "We've got all the other necessary equipment. We're just waiting for these two items," said Buller.

A spokesman for the Queen City Electric Co., which is handling the installation of electrical fixtures in the building, told The Democrat-Capital that, while they are waiting on supplies, "we're still keeping our men busy."

Both the Dean Co. spokesman and Queen City officials stressed that the absence of fixtures will not hamper the usage of the building.

"They're mostly high ceiling lights," the Dean Co. spokesman said. "There will still be plenty of light for usage of the building."

An inspection of the building revealed that, besides the yet-to-be-completed installation of ceiling tiles and lighting fixtures, there are still numerous odds and ends that need to be taken care of.

For example, there probably isn't a single protective plate around the numerous light switches throughout the building. Also, a few red-white-and-blue wires still protrude from walls.

However, Leonard Warren, a Dean employee who is supervising the entire project, isn't worried. "We'll get it all done in plenty of time," he said. "We want to get out of here just as bad as the city officials want to move in."

Louis Harris Survey

Oppose Automatic Death Penalty

By LOUIS HARRIS

Most Americans are much more willing to advocate that persons convicted of murder be given the death penalty than would be willing to serve on a jury if a guilty verdict would result in automatic execution.

As reported previously, a substantial 59 per cent of the public now favors capital punishment in principle. No more than 39 per cent of the same persons, however, could say, "If guilt were proven, I could always vote guilty even though the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty." Another 16 per cent agreed with the statement, "I could never vote guilty, even if guilty were proven, knowing that the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty." And a larger 33 per cent agreed that, "I could not say in all cases, even if guilt were proven, that I would vote guilty, knowing the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty."

Thus, by 49-39 per cent, the American people indicate that in actual practice they would individually oppose the automatic imposition of the death penalty if a person were proven guilty of a crime such as murder.

The clear implication of these results is that while people feel that capital punishment is the most effective deterrent to crimes that take the life of other persons, there should be much latitude in the way the death sentence is handed out. The public wants to have the death penalty on the books, but would use it sparingly and by no means as an automatic punishment for a capital crime.

This important conclusion emerged even more sharply when a nationwide cross section of 1,537 persons was recently asked: "Do you feel that all persons convicted of the listed crimes should get the death penalty, that no one convicted of them should get the death penalty, or do you feel that whether or not someone convicted of these crimes gets the death penalty should depend on the circumstances of the case and the character of the person?"

For Crime of:	All %	No One %	De-pends %	Not Sure %
Killing policeman or prison guard	41	17	38	4
First degree murder	28	16	53	3
Skyjacking	27	27	41	5
Rape	19	27	50	4
Mugging	9	41	43	7
Bank robbery	8	43	43	6

When asked about giving the death sentence automatically to a person convicted of killing a prison guard or a policeman, no more than 41 per cent of the American people would advocate capital punishment in all such cases. Almost as many people, 38 per cent, say that "it depends on the circumstances of the case and the character of the person."

For first degree murder, an even higher 53 per cent would opt for allowing the jury to use some discretion in deciding the death penalty. No more than 2 in 10 would like to see all convicted rapists given the death penalty, a provision recently passed by the Georgia state legislature. In the cases of mugging and bank robbery, the weight of public opinion is not to make capital punishment applicable at all.

When looked on in this perspective, public support for capital punishment does not emerge as an absolute at all, but is much more a relative proposition to most of the American people.

As was reported last Monday, the main reason the public advocates the death sentence is because it is believed to be the "most effective" deterrent to possible murder. The public rejected arguments, however, justifying the death penalty as "an eye for an eye."

The results further qualify public support for the death sentence. People are saying in effect that if they were serving on a jury in a murder trial, they would like to be able to hand down the death sentence, but they would also like the option to come up with an alternative, such as life imprisonment. Yet in most cases, the jury does not have this option. In California, one jury either finds a defendant guilty or innocent in a murder case, but another jury hands down the recommended sentence, thus allowing for a separation of the judgment of guilt and the sentencing.

The public feels so strongly about having this discretion over rendering the death sentence that the number who favor capital punishment as an automatic procedure shrinks under questioning from a majority of 59 to a minority of 39 per cent.

People were asked: "Suppose you were being considered as a possible juror for a trial where if the person were convicted of the crime he would automatically get the death penalty. If the job of the jury were just to decide whether or not the person was guilty, which statement best describes how you would feel in advance of trial?"

vote guilty even though the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty.

I could not say in all cases, even if guilt were proven, that I would vote guilty, knowing the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty.

I could never vote guilty, even if guilt were proven, knowing the defendant would automatically receive the death penalty.

Not sure

It is apparent from these results that advocacy of the death penalty, as far as the American people are concerned, is not simply a yes-or-no matter of favoring or opposing capital punishment. Rather, it is a relative matter, in which people feel that the punishment should be meted out to fit the crime.

Docking Says Kansas Promoting Agriculture

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Gov. Robert Docking has told a conference of agriculture agencies that his administration is "moving forward in all areas of agriculture and agri-business."

The governor addressed a dinner meeting Wednesday night of the summer conference of the Midwest Association of State Departments of Agriculture.

He said the 12 states in the association form a region "that surpasses all others in the essential business of producing food and fiber."

The states include Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Docking said agriculture is and always has been Kansas' foremost business.

He said he is working to make sure there is enough fuel for a good harvest and is also working with railroads to get enough cars to carry Kansas grain products.

Earlier, Ed Hansen, deputy assistant to the U.S. secretary of agriculture said the priority status of agriculture is recognized in the federal voluntary gasoline allocation program recently announced.

"Under this program, suppliers make available to each of their customers the same percentage of total supply of crude oil and products they provided during the corresponding quarter of a base period," Hansen said.

"Additional supplies may be provided to priority customers, which includes farmers and the food industry."

He said the department has begun an educational program with tips to farmers on how to conserve fuel.

Farm fuel needs for this month, he said, are greater than in the comparable month a year ago, with gasoline demands up 8 per cent and diesel fuel needs up 19 per cent. Planting delays caused by cold, wet weather increased the June demand.

Hansen said demand in the corn belt will be high in October.

"To help stretch out supplies were encouraging farmers to arrange to store high moisture corn in silos, to delay harvest until the moisture content of the harvest grain is relatively low, and to dry moist corn with unheated air."

Hansen said so far willingness of farmers to make needed adjustments voluntarily has worked remarkably well.

Rights for 18-Year-Olds To Buy Liquor Is Debated

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "We're not going to eliminate 17 and 18-year-olds drinking by passing this amendment," a Missouri House member said during debate on whether to allow 18-year-olds full adult rights.

The House approved a bill Wednesday sponsored by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, to allow persons 18 years or older to have the same privileges and responsibilities as those over 21 have now.

However, there was heated debate on whether to allow the 18-year-olds the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

Jones' bill was amended in the Senate to prohibit the buying and consuming of alcoholic beverages, but the House substituted Jones' original proposal.

An amendment was offered to put back the Senate prohibition, which sparked the debate.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, said letting the young people have the right to buy liquor would produce increased death rates on state highways.

When Meyer said the accident rate in Michigan had increased 50 per cent since the majority age was lowered there, several other lawmakers countered that was not the case in other states that have adopted it.

"Right now young people in St. Louis can go across the river to Illinois and buy liquor, and then come back and drive on our highways," one member noted.

Several representatives protested the bill would be unfair if the young people did not get all the rights adults possess.

"No one here today has made the distinction of whether an 18-year-old given the right to buy liquor will consume more than those aged 21 to 90," said Rep. C. F. Cline, D-Sikeston.

"In fact, we have some people in this very chamber who can't hold their liquor," he added.

Rep. David Reed, R-Kansas City, said the young people could already find ways to buy beer and liquor if they wanted it, which "leads to disrespect for the present laws."

One representative predicted the bill would never pass the Senate again with the liquor section taken out.

"The vote on this was very close in the Senate ... and none of those senators are going to yield their positions on it," he said.

Ann Landers

Brother's Actions Upset This Reader

Dear Ann Landers: Something MUST be done about kids who are turned loose with B.B. guns and pellets. This morning I heard strange sounds outside my window and discovered that my brother (age 12) had just shot a mother woodpecker and her baby. Although they were already dead he continued to shoot them.

This isn't the first time I've caught him doing such a thing. And he isn't the only one. His friends are just as bad. I blame their parents who think there is something wonderful about teaching children to "hunt." It makes me sick to see nature's creatures dead all around me — deer, ducks, rabbits, squirrels.

At one time man had to kill animals for survival. Today, shooting animals and calling it a "sport" is not only a popular pastime but it's downright fashionable.

I know all the arguments put out by gun clubs, rifle and bullet manufacturers, and magazines that push these sales. They scream about "balance of nature," etc. In the meantime, I am deeply concerned about young people who are taught to kill. Do you have the courage to print this letter? Or has the gun lobby got to you, too? — A Reader

Dear Reader: You must be a brand new reader or you wouldn't have asked that last question. Here's your letter and my thanks to you for having written it.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "A Doctor's Wife" burned me up. She was undoubtedly trying to defend the members of the Noble Fraternity of Medicine against the charges that some of them make passes at women patients in the examining rooms. What really ticked me off was the way she lambasted "the town's bored and neurotic society ladies" who keep propositioning her physician-husband.

Her physician-husband may be a wonderful, kind-hearted, compassionate man, someone in whom women confide easily, but he also has a very loose lip if he goes home and tells his wife stuff like that. I would classify such information as "strictly confidential."

I know several doctors' wives and most of them drink too much. If their husbands are confiding in them, the medical profession is in sad shape. — View From The Bridge

Dear View: I don't believe doctors' wives drink more than the wives of lawyers, sewer inspectors or bus drivers. I do go along with you, however, on physicians who report at home about the unseemly behavior of their women patients. Such information should stay in the office.

Dear Ann Landers: A single woman in her early 30s joined our typing pool last year. She was vague about her social life and never invited any of us to her apartment. We decided she is living with a man.

Three months ago "Miss Enigma" began to put on weight. Last week it became apparent that she is pregnant. She is not wearing maternity clothes, just larger blouses and skirts.

This afternoon during coffee break we were discussing diets.

"Miss Enigma" casually mentioned that she has put on about 15 pounds due to a tumor which she is having out "in a few months."

We hate for her to think she is fooling anyone. What should our attitude be? — Not Born Yesterday.

Dear N.B.Y.: Improved. Right now it's disgusting. People who assume the worst spoil my day. You dames need more work. Why don't you varnish your desks?

License For Pot Harvesting Is Proposed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — State Rep. Mike Glover, D-Lawrence, proposed Wednesday that county clerks or commissioners be given authority to license persons wishing to harvest marijuana.

Under the former University of Kansas student's plan, persons wishing to harvest the weed on tracts under 500 acres would pay a 50-cent fee; $1 on tracts over 500 acres.

Glover conceded at a news conference the plan might be based more on personal conviction than on the attitudes of his constituents.

He said he knows of four legislators—one of them over 65—who smoke marijuana. He declined to identify them.

Glover introduced a measure in the legislature this past session to legalize the sale of marijuana in Kansas but it never escaped committee.

Escapee From Oklahoma Gets 20-year Term

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An escapee from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, James Allen Klein, 40, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment Wednesday after pleading guilty to the Oct. 20 holdup of an Independence, Mo., drive-in bank.

Klein has admitted robbing the bank last Oct. 20 and escaping with $8,410. He was arrested Dec. 8 in Memphis.

Judge William H. Becker said Klein's sentence should run consecutively with a 17-year term Klein incurred for an Oklahoma armed robbery conviction.

Another man, William M. Jarboe, 24, Oklahoma City, is awaiting trial on a charge of driving the getaway car.

Cause of Death Not Determined

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The cause is yet to be determined in the death of James Albert Mutter, 44, who was found dead Wednesday morning after an explosion and fire in his home.

Dr. Chris Fotopoulos, Clay County coroner, said the body was badly burned. He said there was no evidence of a bullet wound but a large caliber bolt-action rifle with one expended shell was found near the victim's body.

Sgt. Dan Breece of the Kansas City police bomb squad said a natural gas explosion had been ruled out.

Officials Say Pollution Controls Will Be Met

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Air quality control officials here disputed Wednesday the federal government's warning that the metropolitan area may not be able to meet 1975 air pollution control standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency notified local authorities last week that preliminary air quality studies in the metropolitan area indicated the city would not meet the 1975 federal standards. The EPA advised that steps should be taken to formulate plans for the reduction of auto traffic.

But local officials said more study of pollution data will be required before serious thought is given to traffic control and other measures.

Paul T. Mydler, deputy commissioner of the St. Louis air pollution control department, said the data studied indicated there was a problem at certain times, but the material has not been validated or reviewed thoroughly.

"We have to see if we have a real problem," Mydler said. "We have to know if the standards were exceeded once or many times, at one station or throughout the metropolitan area."

He noted that if just one station recorded a high level, there would be no need for gas rationing or car pooling for the entire area.

Donald Pecsok, director of the St. Louis County Pollution Control division, agreed and said the EPA study was based on incomplete and unvalidated information.

But he added that if pollution levels prove to be high enough to require traffic control measures, he would consider such things as car pools and mass transportation as positive approaches.

Funeral Services

Roosevelt W. Kinney

Funeral services for Roosevelt W. Kinney, 68, who died Tuesday evening at Bothwell Hospital in Sedalia, will be held Saturday at the Green Funeral Chapel in Mexico with Rev. C. A. Trotter officiating.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Green Funeral Home in Mexico.

Burial will be in the Elmwood Cemetery, Mexico.

Insecticide Origin Is Still Unknown

Sedalia authorities have confirmed that some type of insecticide was responsible for last week's fish kill at the Liberty Park lagoon, but so far it has not been determined where the insecticide originated.

Police Chief William Miller said Thursday morning that his department had checked available leads in the case, including one report that several 55-gallon drums had been dumped into the water. However, he said, this could not be confirmed.

Miller said that one possible cause could have been run-off from a "huge storm sewer" that empties into the east end of the lagoon. "A lot of insecticide has been used this spring, and this could possibly account for it," he said. Miller added that the theory someone maliciously poured insecticide into the lagoon didn't "hold up" in view of the department's investigation.

The cause of the fish kill, according to Jack Coutts, superintendent of parks, was loss of oxygen in the water. The problem was first noted a week ago when a strong odor surrounded the lagoon and fish were seen swimming near the top of the water. The fire department at one point used its new fire truck to pour fresh water into the lagoon.

Coutts said, "If it hadn't been for them, we would have lost every fish in the lagoon. I understand they were pumping about 750 gallons of water a minute into the lagoon at one time."

The pumping operation began Saturday morning and continued through Sunday, it was reported. An estimated 100 fish died in the incident.

Coutts added that fishing could be safely resumed since the insecticide did not poison the fish.

Car's Vandalism Cost Set at $100

Vandalism to a car owned by Lorraine Norton, 1000 West 14th, was reported to Sedalia police Thursday morning by her father, Hillery L. Norton Jr., of the same address.

Norton told police the car's rear windshield was struck by a rock and that numerous scratches were found on the car. Damage to the car, which was parked on the driveway of the Norton home, was estimated at $100, police said. The incident occurred between 1 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

Former Sedalia Attorney Named Probate Judge

Henry A. Keeler, formerly of 1215 Maple Lane and now residing in California, Mo., was appointed probate judge and ex-officio magistrate of Moniteau County Wednesday.

The appointment was made by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Keeler, a Republican, holds a law degree and bachelor's degree from the University of Missouri-Kansas City and practiced law in Sedalia until recently.

He served two terms as Pettis County prosecuting attorney, first being elected in 1966. He also was appointed to fill an unexpired term as Sedalia city attorney in 1971.

Keeler, in his new position, will fill the unexpired term of the late H. J. Hood.

Expect Charges In 2 Check Cases

Two bogus check charges were to be filed Tuesday afternoon in Pettis County Magistrate Court, according to Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

To be charged are R. D. McCorkle, former manager of the Pacific Cafe, 202 West Main; and Kathleen Owsley, Marshall.

McCorkle allegedly issued an insufficient funds check of $134.81 on April 25 to Gerald Reeter, employee of John Graves Food Service, Chillicothe.

The Owsley woman allegedly issued a no funds check of $412.13 March 2 to Pat O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC Co., 1300 South Limit.

Chuck Stockstill, owner of the Pacific Bar and Cafe, said Thursday that McCorkle signed the alleged bogus checks himself and not in the name of the cafe. Stockstill said he verbally agreed to lease the cafe to McCorkle on a trial basis in April.

Continue To Seek Clues in Big Fire

"We're still looking and listening," Police Chief William Miller said Thursday when asked about any new developments in the police and fire departments' investigation of circumstances surrounding a $100,000 blaze that swept the Benson Lumber Co., 2400 Clinton Road, early Wednesday morning.

While the fire's origin is still listed as undetermined, Fire Chief Willas Jabas Wednesday said "a lot of questions have yet to be answered."

Miller said the presence of the two gasoline cans, which Benson officials said were unlike any in the destroyed building, was suspicious because it was later reported by Benson officials that gasoline had been stolen from the firm recently. No report to police regarding the theft was made, Miller said.

Mishap Results In Damage Suit

A five-count, $136,800 damage suit was filed Wednesday in Pettis County Circuit Court by Melvin L. Emerson and Lauretta E. Emerson, 111 East Jefferson.

The suit lists Ann Boyer, Ithaca, Mich., as the defendant and stems from an automobile accident Aug. 17, 1972, about two miles west of Sedalia on Highway 50.

The suit contends Emerson and his wife were eastbound in a 1967 Buick and the Boyer woman was westbound in a 1972 Mustang at the time of the incident. The suit alleges the defendant was negligent in the operation of her car which reportedly entered the eastbound lane and "violently ran into and collided with" Emerson's auto.

The plaintiffs seek $110,000 for alleged injuries to Emerson and $25,000 for injuries to his wife. An additional $1,800 is sought for damage to the Emerson auto.

Cease-fire Order Issued by Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong has issued a cease-fire order to all its units in South Vietnam to take effect at noon Friday Saigon time — midnight Thursday EDT — the Viet Cong radio reported today.

A joint communique signed by the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong in Paris Wednesday calls for such orders to be issued by the Saigon and Viet Cong military commands.

A similar order has been scheduled to come from the Saigon side.

Open Meetings Bill Accord Seems Certain

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Agreement on a bill to require all government units to hold open meetings appeared certain today after House and Senate conferees resolved their differences.

Wednesday conferees tentatively agreed that those voting yes and no would be named so the public would know how each person voted.

The conference committee also reached tentative agreement that arrest records of persons not charged with a crime after being arrested or those against whom charges were dismissed without prosecution could not be made available for public inspection.

The revised version of the bill was being drafted Wednesday night, and the committee was expected to take action today before sending the bill back to both houses for approval of the changes.

Meanwhile House and Senate conferees have been working to resolve differences in the reorganization bill in unofficial meetings. The House defeated Tuesday the bill to reorganize the executive branch.

An official conference committee is expected to be called to reconsider the bill. As yet the Senate has not granted the House request for that conference, although members from both houses have been working on the bill.

In a night session Wednesday the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill removing the $50,000 limit on damages that could be awarded in wrongful death suits.

Included in the bill is language saying a jury shall award damages for wrongful death that will "fairly compensate" for the loss of the person killed.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, led unsuccessful opposition to the bill saying it could result in astronomical awards that could cause insurance companies to increase their rates.

The Senate defeated a bill that would have required candidates to be listed in order of filing instead of being alternately listed on paper ballots.

Two major tax bills were acted upon Wednesday.

The governor signed into law a bill allowing the governing bodies of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City to levy a half-cent sales tax for transportation. Any other city with less than 500 persons could levy the tax on a public vote.

About $19 million is expected to be raised annually in St. Louis city and county and $7 million is expected to be earned from the tax in Kansas City.

"The measure is designed to insure continued operation of public systems in the Kansas City and St. Louis areas, as well as to provide for other transportation needs as determined by local governments," Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "It is my sincere hope that this measure will provide improved services and reduce fares, particularly in the St. Louis area."

The bill enables financing of the Bi-State Bus System in St. Louis and the Kansas City Area Transportation Authority. The tax would remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1975.

Also sent to the governor was a bill to make sure the ATA sales tax, already in effect, continues at least through Sept. 30, 1975. Sponsors said the second bill was needed in case the St. Louis tax ended up in a court battle, thereby affecting Kansas City which is included in the bill.

In a night session, the Senate approved House amendments to a park levy bill and that, too, goes to the governor.

The bill allows St. Louis and Jackson counties to raise their annual park levies from eight to 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The counties could add one cent in 1975 and another in 1976.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, was unsuccessful in adding an amendment to require the proposal be put before voters. He objected to giving local governing bodies power to raise people's taxes.

The House gave lopsided approval to a bill granting 18-year-olds full adult rights, including the right to buy alcoholic beverages. The bill went back to the Senate, which had excluded the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

The bill would go into effect Sept. 28.

A bill to increase the aid to dependent children payments by $5 per person met opposition from the House, which wanted a $10 increase. The House offered to delay the effective date of the bill to 1974 if the Senate would go along with the increase.

Under the Senate version, a mother would receive $38 a month, the first child would get $48 a month and each additional child would receive $29 a month. The bill is expected to cost $11 million a year to fund.

Another public assistance bill cleared the legislative machinery Wednesday and was en route to the governor's desk.

It would provide continuance of old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to the permanently disabled when the federal government takes over the program next year.

Welfare officials say the federal benefits may be less than the current payments because the federal supplements to the state program may be reduced. About 117,000 Missourians would be affected.

A bill to extend licenses to sell liquor by the drink to resorts in unincorporated areas cleared the Senate and went back to the House for approval of an amendment to exclude country clubs from the bill.

Under present law, only resorts in counties bordering on lakes with at least 250 miles of shoreline (Lake of the Ozarks) can sell liquor by the drink. Other resorts have package outlets.

Sent to the governor was a bill requiring the Public Service Commission to inspect and issue seals to all mobile homes manufactured after Jan. 1, 1974.

The bill says the Division of Health will set up regulations requiring all mobile homes to be tied down to avoid blowing over in tornadoes. However, a Senate amendment took out a penalty of a misdemeanor if mobile home owners refused to comply.

Probation Period Set For Sedalian

A Sedalia youth was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and then placed on probation after appearing before Pettis County Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong Thursday morning.

Placed on probation was Dennis Worthley, 17, 1803 South Washington, charged with stealing merchandise valued at less than $50.

Worthley was charged with stealing a bicycle May 6 from a residence at 2326 South Ingram. He was initially charged with stealing merchandise worth more than $50, a felony, but Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Thursday reduced the charge to a misdemeanor.

In other court business, Judge Armstrong ordered that Richard Boggs, 19, 108 East Cooper, be bound over for trial to Circuit Court on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

The charge stems from an altercation at the Sedalia police station May 7 in which Boggs allegedly assaulted Patrolman John DeJarnette.

Testifying at the preliminary hearing were DeJarnette and police Sergeants J. V. Phelps and Frank Lueck.

Boggs is free on $2,500 bond.

Ozark Pilots Will Not Cross Picket Lines

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Air Line Pilots Association said at a news conference today that its members would not cross picket lines to resume limited flight service for strikebound Ozark Air Lines.

The pilots said their decision not to fly Ozark planes is consistent with their rights as members of a labor organization. They said their refusal would "preserve the labor situation which has existed since April 19," the day the strike by the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association started.

The strike, in its 57th day today, has shut down Ozark operations in 15 states and 62 cities. The airline had proposed a limited schedule to nine cities in Missouri and Illinois, which was to begin June 21. But that plan was dependent upon some senior pilots returning to work.

The pilots relayed their decision today in a letter to Edward J. Crane, president of Ozark. Company officials were not immediately available for comment on the decision by pilots.

The ALPA noted in the letter that Ozark is a member of the mutual aid pact, which provides some funds to strikebound airlines, and has been accumulating benefits since the strike started.

The letter to Crane, which was signed by Capt. John J. O'Donnell, ALPA president, said "our computation indicates that the company has over $4 million in past benefits to date and the company will continue to receive about $60,000 daily until the end of the strike."

Samuel Smith, president of Local 24 of the mechanics union, said earlier he felt the company was procrastinating in negotiations to see what the pilots would say about resuming flights.

Representatives of the two sides have been meeting off-and-on for about two weeks in Washington, and some of the sessions have been held with a federal mediator.

Dollar Moves Up Sharply In London

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved sharply higher in London today but lost small fractions in other European centers as money markets studied President Nixon's latest anti-inflation package.

The dollar jumped nearly half a cent when the London foreign exchange market opened. The pound was quoted at $2.5692. But local factors may have played a role. The pound weakened Wednesday against the dollar because of disappointing British foreign trade figures, the worst in three years.

On the continent, the dollar was marginally weaker at the opening. Dealers in Paris and Frankfurt said it was too early to expect any market reaction to the Nixon moves, including his price freeze of up to 60 days.

Nixon spoke after midnight European time, and financial communities on this side of the Atlantic were studying the fine print of his remarks when markets opened. Inflation has been a major reason for the dollar's recent weakness.

Gold was unchanged in Zurich at $115.75 an ounce, another sign the market had paused to assess Nixon's remarks. In London, gold opened 25 cents higher at $116 an ounce.

In Frankfurt, the dollar weakened a small fraction from 2.6240 marks at Wednesday's close to 2.6220 marks at opening. In Paris, the dollar recorded a similar dip from 4.3325 commercial francs to 4.3250 commercial francs.

38 Remain Stranded In Two Cable Cars

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Thirty-eight persons remained stranded in two aerial cable cars high in the Sandia Mountains today after a cable slipped out of its track Wednesday night. Police said there was no danger of the cars falling to the ground.

Rescuers were using bulldozers to push a crane up the mountain to lift the cable, which drives the cars, back into place.

The stranded passengers, including a baby, were in fine condition, said Robert Nordhaus, president of Sandia Peak Tram Co. A mountain rescue team helped hoist food and blankets to the cars.

"They're comfortable. They're not complaining," Nordhaus said. "The baby has milk and a stove to warm the milk."

The cable cars got stuck early Wednesday night when the haul cable, which pulls the two cars between the crest of the mountain and the lower terminal, slipped from two track cables. The cars remained suspended from two guide cables.

Officials said thundershowers were moving through the area when the incident occurred.

Police said one of the two cars was en route up the 2.7 mile cableway to the top of the 10,300-foot Sandia Peak, and the other was descending when the slip occurred.

One of the cars stopped 1,800 feet from the top of the cableway, and the other 1,800 feet from the bottom. The top car was stranded some 600 feet above ground, and the lower car about 250 feet above ground.

The cable cars are used to carry passengers to and from Sandia Crest, where a restaurant and ski area are located. Sandia Peak is just outside Albuquerque.

Magruder

White House counsel, participated during the June-September period in developing a cover-up story to attempt to keep the scandal from reaching any higher than Liddy, who had worked as counsel for the two principal Nixon re-election committees.

Magruder is prepared to testify for the government in future Watergate trials, and expects to plead guilty to one count of conspiracy.

Magruder said Mitchell, the campaign director and former attorney general, approved the final $250,000 bugging proposal on March 30, 1972, at Key Biscayne, Fla. He said the operation was first proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, then a campaign aide, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator.

"No one was completely overwhelmed with the project. But we thought the information could be useful and Mr. Mitchell approved the project," said Magruder.

This meeting had followed two meetings earlier in the year where Mitchell had first rejected a $1-million proposal and then a $500,000 plan, Magruder testified.

Logs of wiretapped telephone conversations were regularly given to Mitchell, Magruder said.

He said Strachan also saw the logs, but didn't receive copies of them for his own use.

Magruder said Mitchell was angry at Liddy because there was little useful information in the logs. "He said they were worthless, and not worth the money we paid," Magruder recalled.

Strachan, who viewed the documents in Magruder's office, also agreed that there was little of substance in them, Magruder said.

Liddy explained that one of the wiretaps which had been placed in the Democratic headquarters didn't work, and promised Mitchell to correct the situation, Magruder said.

Magruder said John W. Dean III, ousted White House counsel, was also among those present at the two meetings at which wiretapping plans were presented by Liddy.

"Unfortunately we made some mistakes in the campaign which led to a major national concern," said Magruder, who served as deputy director of the Nixon organization.

Magruder, 38, said he took full responsibility for his own acts and, as "a mature man," is willing to face the consequences.

Kissinger Appears To Have Settled For Less

SAIGON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger appears to have gone home from Paris short of his goal of strengthening the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, settling for "unwritten understandings" that could doom it to failure.

This was the impression given at a news conference today by Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, although he did not say so directly.

But Lam acknowledged that the joint communique signed by the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong in Paris Wednesday failed to address itself to two major issues that would appear to block a realistic truce:

—The presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam and their continued infiltration.

—The presence of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in Cambodia and Laos and major bases there, which could be used to encroach upon South Vietnam.

Lam indicated that Kissinger had made a secret "understanding" with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho on these issues but said its substance would have to be disclosed by Washington.

A similar understanding was said to have been made at the time the original Paris agreement was signed, Jan. 27.

The joint communique, like the original agreement, makes no provision for withdrawal of an estimated 145,000 North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam.

On Cambodia and Laos, the new accord restates Article 20 of the original agreement, which says the signers will respect their neutrality, refrain from using their territory and put an end to all military activities there.

The article has been ignored. U.S. bombing in Cambodia is nearing its 100th successive day. According to U.S. intelligence estimates, up to 100,000 North Vietnamese troops remain in Laos and Cambodia, most of them engaged in logistics support for Communist forces in South Vietnam.

The joint communique adds a new dimension to the original agreement. It now gives Hanoi license to move war materials through the demilitarized zone "only if introduced into South Vietnam as replacements ... and through a designated point of entry."

Who is going to check out the DMZ? The communique leaves this unclear. Although Lam evaded a direct answer, the feeling was that Saigon had been pressured into signing the communique with threats of a cut in U.S. foreign aid. Such a cut likely would result in the economic collapse of the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Aides to Lam did nothing to discourage reports that such a threat had been made.

It has been reliably reported by American sources in Saigon that President Nixon, preoccupied with the Watergate scandal and facing an unsympathetic Congress ready to cut off funds for bombing in Cambodia and Laos, ordered Kissinger to conclude the new accord with Tho this week.

the middle of the glasses sends out sound waves which bounce back to two receivers above it. The sensors, which work much like a submarine's sonar system, allow a person wearing them to locate objects as far as 10 feet away without the groping motions ordinarily used by a blind person. (UPI)

Ship Captains Confident Mines Have Deactivated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian and other freighters have delivered well over 150,000 tons of cargo to North Vietnam since the United States suspended minesweeping. Pentagon sources estimate.

This suggests ship captains are confident the mines, laid by U.S. Navy planes as late as last December, have deactivated automatically as American officials said they were preset to do.

A Navy task force is expected to resume minesweeping at Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports a few days after U.S. and Hanoi negotiators reach agreement to carry out terms of the Vietnam cease-fire pact signed last Jan. 27.

About 11,000 U.S. mines were dropped into North Vietnamese waters, principally in the approaches to seven North Vietnamese ports, but U.S. minesweepers exploded only one mine after clearing operations began at Haiphong on March 6.

Captain Believes Death Of Detective 'Mistake'

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — The death of a police detective here last Thursday was a "horrible mistake," Capt. John Andrews, head of this city's detective section, said Tuesday.

Detective Kenneth J. McCoy, 27, died of a gunshot wound to the head which he suffered in an exchange of gunfire during an armed robbery stakeout that also claimed the life of one of the suspects, Edward Johnson, 16.

"I have every reason to believe that the shot that killed McCoy was fired by a police riot gun," Andrews said. "I believe the shot fired by (Detective William) Stanis was the fatal one, but I'm no judge on these things."

Stanis, one of the officers involved in the stakeout, has been under treatment for shock at an East St. Louis hospital since the incident.

Drug Abuse Is Talk Topic for Officer

Assistant Sedalia Police Chief Charles Knapp was the featured speaker during a recent drug abuse briefing at Whiteman AFB. During his talk, Knapp emphasized the dangers to health and the legal hazards involved in drug abuse.

Hashish pipes and other items related to drug use were displayed during the talk. A film entitled "Narcotics: Pit of Despair," was also shown, followed by a question-and-answer session.

Police have been unable to take a statement from Stanis because he "has been incoherent," Andrews said. "I have been to see him, but he starts to talk and then breaks down."

Although both Andrews and Police Chief William Dye said they are awaiting a report from the coroner before definitely stating the cause of death, Andrews said it was his opinion that the wound was caused by a shotgun.

"And it's been established that the only one at the scene with a shotgun that was fired was Stanis," he said.

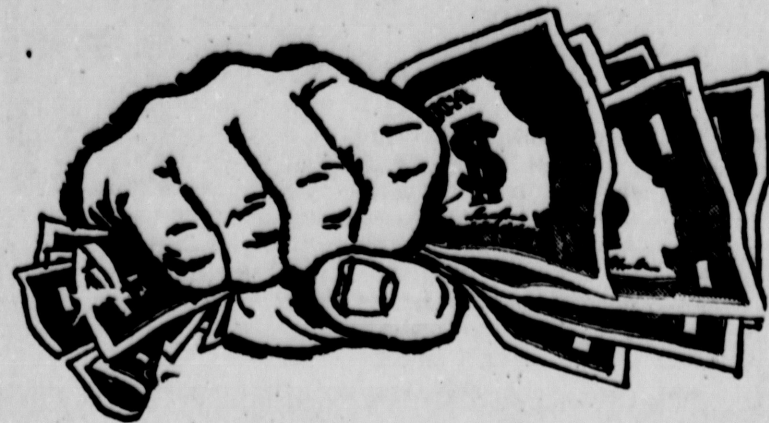

McCoy, who was on vacation, volunteered to act as a decoy at the home of a tavern owner, who police had been told was to be the target of an armed robbery. McCoy was shot in the hand by one of four armed men who approached him while he was pretending to work on a car outside the tavern owner's home.

Police said McCoy then shot and killed one of the robbers with his police revolver and began searching for the others. Three other officers, including Stanis, were waiting outside the house.

Two teen-agers have been arrested and charged with murder in the case under a law which provides for murder charges against anyone involved in a felony that leads to a killing.

Those charged were identified as John J. Ledell, 18, and a juvenile, both of East St. Louis.

Many Adult Deaths Are Not Explained

Dear Dr. Lamb — A few days ago in our local newspaper you had an article on unexplained deaths in infants. Can you tell me anything about unexplained deaths in adults?

About six months ago our daughter age 29; married, with two small children, 1½ and 3½ died with no explanation. About three weeks before her death she had a convulsion and was rushed to the hospital where many tests were given. She was unconscious nearly seven hours. They ran the brain wave tests — heart tests and after four days she was dismissed with no explanation. Then about three weeks later she just fell over while having breakfast with her two children. She was in excellent health and except for the ordinary childhood diseases she was never sick. She had no anxieties nor complained of any physical illness. About three weeks before her convulsion she had had a severe sore throat and received penicillin and was apparently cured.

An autopsy was performed but nothing was found wrong with any of her organs. The death certificate was listed as cardiac arrhythmia (clinical).

The doctors who attended her suggested she must have had rheumatic fever as a child. I checked with the doctor she had when she was a child and he said, no way could she have had rheumatic fever. We would like to know for our own peace of mind as well as wondering if there might be something the children could inherit. We would appreciate any comment you could make.

Dear Reader — There are probably a lot of adult deaths that are not explained. An examination may show liver disease, heart disease, or a variety of abnormal conditions which can develop in the course of life but their presence alone does not mean that they are the cause of death. These findings may be coincidental.

There is no way to be certain what caused your daughter's death from the information at hand. Certainly an irregularity of the heart which interferes with the heart's inability to pump blood to the brain can result in a convulsion. If the pumping action of the heart isn't restored, brain damage and death can ensue.

I assume from your remarks that adequate studies were done to prove that there was no hemorrhage in the brain, which can sometimes occur suddenly in young people, and that there were no other important anatomical findings, which is the reason for your doctor stating that the death was caused by a heart irregularity. The cause even for serious irregularities of the heart is not always apparent. It's possible that there was a birth defect in the complex electrical mechanism of the heart. This, however, doesn't mean that it would be passed on to the children.

It could have been from old rheumatic fever and, incidentally, children do have rheumatic fever without sufficient illness to make it possible to establish a diagnosis at the time. There may be no associated strep throat, joint pains, or other findings. Only later in adult life can it be determined in retrospect that someone had rheumatic fever in some of these cases.

Microscopic examinations of the tissues sometimes is the only way that the diagnosis can be established. Cardiac irregularities that occur spontaneously with no apparent cause and result in death do not leave any evidence to be seen on examination afterward. I'd like to emphasize that many cardiac irregularities are minor and of no consequence. Almost all of us have an occasional skipped beat whether we are aware of them or not. But they can be serious, even in young, apparently healthy people.

Attorneys General Vote Energy Crisis Study Push

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The National Association of Attorneys General voted unanimously Wednesday to urge Congress to establish a special task force to investigate the nation's energy crisis.

The resolution, passed during the final session of state prosecutors 67th annual conference here, said the probe should look at the oil industry in particular and include "the prosecution of federal anti-trust violations brought to light by such investigation."

In calling for the inquiry, the association noted "the citizens of our states are being subjected to sharp increases in the price of gasoline and fuel oil."

A measure calling for "a full investigation by federal and state governments" into the Watergate scandal, however, did not find as receptive an audience.

By a 15-12 vote, the country's top state legal officers rejected the Watergate resolution with the balloting closely following party lines.

Three Democrats joined 12 Republicans to defeat the measure with the 12 favorable votes coming from Democrats.

Missouri's Republican Attorney General John C. Danforth called it an "empty resolution."

"It (Watergate) is already being investigated," Danforth said, and passage of the resolution "would make this organization look silly."

But Democrat Robert H. Quinn of Massachusetts said the proposal was not political.

Buyer Wants Supplier Of Four-leaf Clovers

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — If anyone has 250,000 four-leaf clovers to sell, the Agriculture Department says it knows of a buyer.

Health Care Group Is Founded

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — A "Missouri Valley Comprehensive Health Planning Committee" was formed at a meeting at the Farmers Savings Bank here Monday, with Bill Hollis, Salisbury, named the group's first president.

Once approved by the Governors Advisory Council, the committee will meet several times a year and make studies of health care needs and make recommendations to the state office based on these studies.

Other officers are Dr. Ferrell Musgraves, Marshall, vice-president; the Rev. Jan Smook, Carrollton, secretary; and Hollie Barlow, Hale, Mo., Mrs. Sallie Hailey, Arrow Rock, and Jack Tindie, Carrollton, committee members.

Attending the meeting were Russell I. Nicholas, executive director of the Missouri Valley Regional Planning Commission, and Don Whitehead, health planning specialist from the Missouri office of Comprehensive Health Planning.

Should federal or state funds become available for comprehensive health care, the committee must approve any application for financial assistance in the area, it was reported.

The Foreign Agricultural Service has computer tapes for just about any farm commodity, but none for four-leaf clovers. A buyer in Denmark wants the agency to help locate a supplier.

Lloyd Williams, of the agency's export trade service division, says the request was forwarded from Copenhagen by the U.S. agricultural attaché's office. He said neither the firm's name nor the price was mentioned.

Williams said the Danish firm apparently wants a reliable supply of four-leaf clovers to use in novelty items such as key rings and bracelets.

The computerized trade referral service operated by the agency helped locate $9.5 million worth of U.S. items for foreign customers in the first four months of this year, Williams said.

There is another item that has been giving the computer trouble: kits for making home-made beer. That order came in from Iceland. So far, Williams said, no do-it-yourself home-brew kits have been found.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Packers and Stockyards Administration in the Agriculture Department is warning meat packers that it is illegal to engage in custom livestock feeding or sales to other packing houses.

Meat packers can feed their own livestock for their own slaughter purposes, says agency administrator Marvin L. McLain. His agency enforces regulations under the Packers and Stockyards Act, a fair-trade law.

"The historical position of our agency has been to regard the practice by packers of feeding livestock on a custom basis, and the selling of livestock to another packer or another buyer, as violations of the P&S Act," McLain said in a statement.

Custom feeding is the feeding and fattening for market of livestock owned by others. The law bars such operations to prevent possible manipulation of livestock markets by meat packers. McLain said "there have been no serious problems" thus far.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the National Grain and Feed Association says that fuel shortages next fall at a time when newly harvested grain requires drying could result in widespread losses because of moldy conditions.

James V. Hauser, of Eldora, Iowa, told a Senate subcommittee hearing that a shortage of fuel for dryers also could produce mycotoxins, naturally produced poisons.

One common mold called Aspergillus flavus is capable of producing aflatoxin, one of the most powerful cancer-causing agents known.

"Mycotoxins can develop as a result of mold growth in high moisture grain that is not immediately conditioned since molds can thrive in 18 per cent moisture grain," Hauser said.

Once the poisons develop in grain, it must either be destroyed or used as a non-food item, he said. "If this happens in other than isolated instances, our food supply can be jeopardized," he said.

GOP Maintains 2-1 Contributions Edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate scandal may be hurting fund raisers for the Republican National Committee and helping the Democrats, but the GOP so far has maintained its traditional 2-1 edge in contributions.

Quarterly reports filed with the General Accounting Office show the Republican National Committee received $1.4 million in contributions between March 1 and May 31.

During the same period, the Democratic National Committee took in $632,580.

Both committees had similar cash balances on May 31—the Republicans had $269,482, the Democrats $261,533. But the Democrats reported current debts of $78,000 and a long-term debt of $4 million while the Republicans said they had just $78,581 in back bills.

Robert P. Odell Jr., treasurer of the Republican National Finance Committee, said in an interview that contributions from a continuing direct mail program are running ahead of the same, roughly comparable off-year election period in 1971.

He added, however, that most of the increase of $200,000 was collected in the first quarter, before the Watergate scandal exploded anew in late March.

Currently, Odell said, these contributions are ahead of 1971 "but not by much."

Odell said also that despite small-contributor response to direct mail, which accounts for about 86 per cent of all contributions, large contributions of $1,000 and up are off by 25 to 50 per cent.

RN Associates, the committee that collects large gifts, reported $122,663 in contributions since March 1. Nearly all of it was donated in late May by traditional GOP contributors who include some of President Nixon's biggest contributors of last year.

But RN Associates reported collecting only $135,688 in all since Jan. 1, far short of the pace needed to meet a $1 million 1973 goal for large gifts.

National committee officials believe fund raising has been hurt mainly by three factors: The Watergate scandal, a year-old federal law requiring full disclosure of all over-$100 contributors and the fact that Nixon's re-election committee, a separate entity, still has $4.5 million left over from the most successful political fund-raising effort in history.

Flag Day a time to review history

By presidential proclamation, June 14 is Flag Day, a day set aside for honoring and displaying the flag of the United States.

A bit of flag history is appropriate on this date. The following draws heavily from "Your Flag," a new publication of the Boy Scouts of America.

Although this nation declared its independence on July 4, 1776, it was almost a year later before a national flag was designated. On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress adopted the following brief resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the 13 United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

This hasty wording failed to specify how the stars and stripes would be arranged, and a bewildering variety of flags soon proliferated, all conforming to the language of the resolution. It was not until 1912, after the American flag had been officially changed 24 times, that its proportions were standardized by order of President William Howard Taft.

The current version of Old Glory dates from July 4, 1960, following the admission of Alaska and Hawaii to statehood. This was the 27th official version of the flag.

Flag lore has its share of legends, and, hard as it may be to swallow, Betsy Ross may well be one of them. There is no historical evidence that Betsy sewed the first stars and stripes from George Washington's design. But there was a Betsy Ross who did make some ships' ensigns for the Philadelphia Navy Board.

Instead of Betsy Ross, a man by the name of Francis Hopkinson is credited as being the most likely designer of the American flag. Hopkinson, besides holding important posts in the new revolutionary government, was a recognized designer. He billed the Continental Congress $2,700 for services rendered, which included designs for currency, the Great Seal of the U.S., a treasury seal, and — "a design for the flag."

Job bias against students

Recently I accompanied my daughter to seek summer employment at one of Sedalia's large discount stores. She is planning to attend Southwest Baptist College this fall. We were told that they would not even consider those that would be going out of town to school. They give priority to those who are attending State Fair Community College, and informed us that many other Sedalia stores abide by the same policy, which we found to be true in at least one other instance.

Their reason? So that some of them might continue to work part-time after school starts. This is logical and justifiable in their eyes, I suppose, but don't you think this is a little discriminatory? Just because a young person chooses to go to a fine Christian college in Missouri, does this mean that they do not need to work just as badly as those attending SFCC?

...I am not knocking SFCC in the least. I think it is a fine college and have supported it in every election ... but I just think the employers of Sedalia should consider it important for a young person to work, regardless of where they choose to go to school.

For the White House—Secretariat

WASHINGTON — One thing that everyone in this country seems to agree on is that we must restore faith in the executive branch of the government. Although President Nixon has appointed a people to the White House, most of them are old faces that just have been moved around from one post to another.

Buchwald

What the nation needs desperately is someone in the White House who has the complete and unequivocal backing of all the American people — someone who has never been touched by scandal of any kind; whose credibility is unquestioned and who is a symbol of everything Americans believe their leaders should be.

The only one on the American scene to do this is Secretariat, the triple-crown winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Preckness and the Belmont Stakes.

If President Nixon would appoint Secretariat to an important position in the White House, he would be going a long way toward his promise of cleaning house and restoring the image of the presidency. Mr. Nixon would be saying to the American people, "You want new faces in the White House. I'm giving you a winner."

Now before you scoff at my suggestion I would like to point out there is a precedent for such an appointment. The Roman Emperor Caligula appointed his own horse as a consul to Rome. It's true Caligula did this to show his contempt for the Senate, but I don't think any self-respecting person believes that Mr. Nixon would appoint Secretariat for the same reason.

As a special assistant to the President, Secretariat could accompany the President to Camp David and San Clemente. Mr. Nixon could confide in him without fear that his conversation would be leaked to the press. And when the President gets tired and weary from all the affairs of state, he could ride Secretariat around the White House lawn.

The 3-year-old stallion could also fulfill other functions in the White House. When Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, or his assistant Gerald Warren, receive a particularly tough question they could say, "We'll check that out with Secretariat and get back to you later." Or if Secretariat can't answer it, they can always reply "That's a horse of a different color."

Secretariat could show up for political fund-raising dinners and at congressional hearings. He could get involved in the energy crisis and go to Paris with Henry Kissinger.

But his most important function would be that when the President's enemies call for his resignation or impeachment, Secretariat could warn the country that you don't change horses in midstream.

As President Nixon has said many times he would go to any lengths to clear up Watergate. Secretariat could supply him with 31 lengths to start with.

I have given reasons why President Nixon would want Secretariat in his Cabinet. But why would Secretariat take the job at this time?

The answer is that Secretariat is being retired from racing this year and therefore, would have no conflict of interests. Also, America has been good to Secretariat and he would like to pay it back with some public service. At three years old, he feels he still has a lot to give to this country.

When I suggested my idea to friends in the White House press corps, they were quite skeptical that Secretariat could restore faith in the Presidency. One said, "We've had horses in the White House before."

"Aha!" I said. "But this one has a head." c. 1973, Los Angeles Times

A conservative view

Pro-Hiss lobby is not dead

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — In its issue of May 28, The Nation magazine makes one more effort to discredit the conviction of Alger Hiss. After 25 years, the liberals still will not accept the truth, to which Whittaker Chambers long ago bore witness, that their own golden boy could have been a Communist agent.

Kilpatrick

A whole generation, of course, has grown up that knew not Alger Hiss. His two trials for perjury (the first ended with a hung jury, the second in conviction) were among the most celebrated trials of the postwar period. The hearings of August, 1948, which incidentally rocketed Congressman Richard Nixon to national prominence, were the sensation of the day.

On the surface, the drama involved two men only. Alger Hiss was the quintessential young Harvard lawyer, onetime clerk to Justice Holmes, counselor to the ailing Roosevelt at Yalta, an important figure in the formation of the United Nations. He was a liberal, an intellectual, a man of apparently impeccable credentials.

His accuser was a stolid, pudgy ex-Communist, Whittaker Chambers, then a senior editor for Time magazine. The astounding accusation, in sum, was that in the mid-Thirties, as a party courier, Chambers had known Hiss closely as a member of the Communist party. This Hiss denied under oath. The charge and the denial led to the perjury trials.

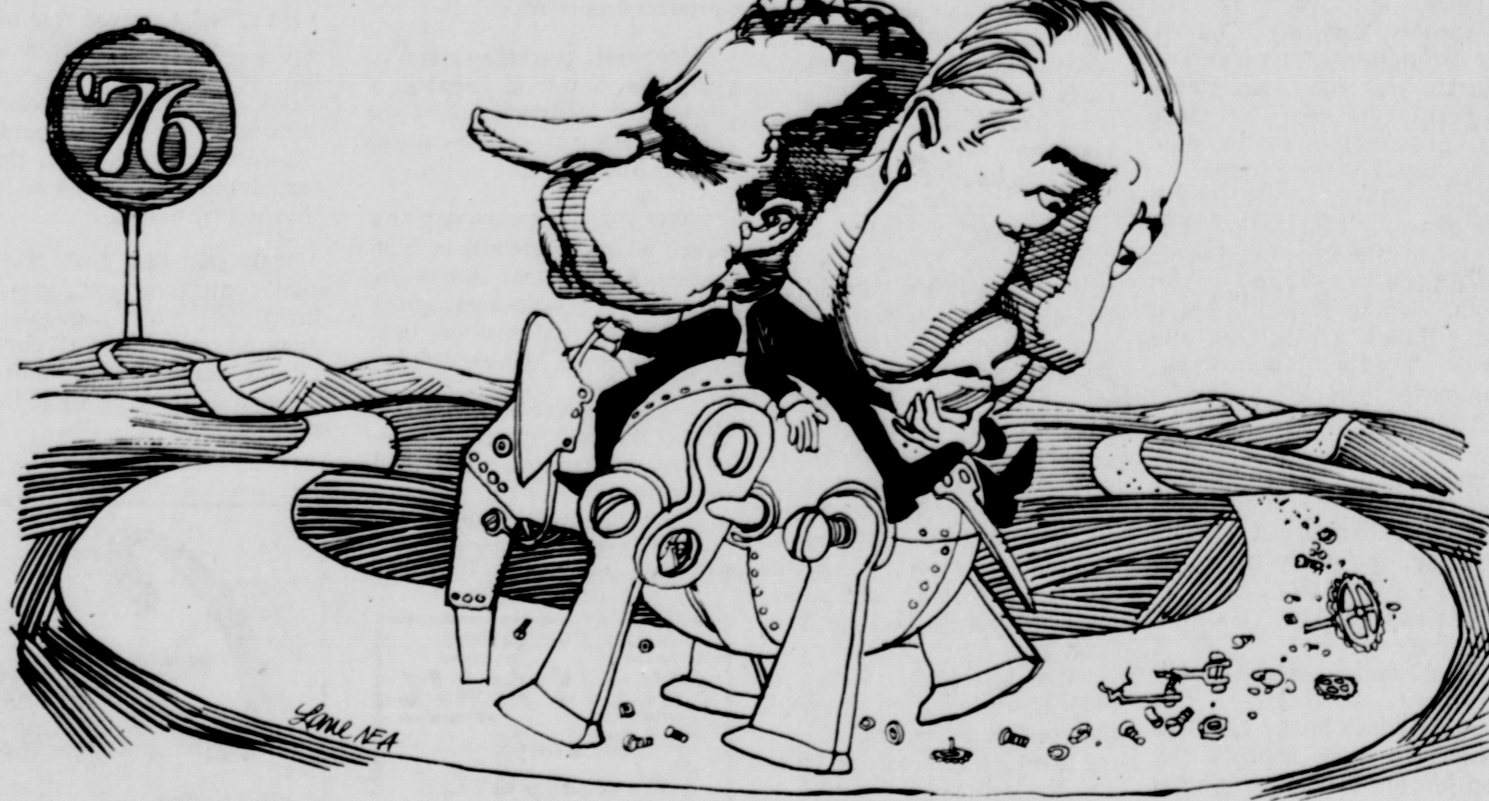

The Hiss-Chambers case was far more than a personal drama. Chambers effectively destroyed himself in order to bear witness to the implacable nature of Communist conspiracy. His book, "Witness," published by Random House in 1952, one day will be ranked among the great autobiographical works of the century. If Western freedom were a religion, and had its own hagiography, Chambers would rank high among its latter-day saints.

In seeking to establish the innocence of Hiss, The Nation's apologists, Raymond A. Werchen and Fred J. Cook, necessarily seek to defame Chambers. Their feeble effort, this time around, has chiefly to do with the purchase of a Ford automobile by Mrs. Chambers in November of 1937. A bill of sale, issued by the Schmidt Motor Company of Randallstown, Md., was offered as evidence in the June, 1949, trial. Werchen and Cook charge that the bill of sale was "fabricated."

Their reasoning strikes me as a frantic exercise in grasping at straws. Chambers' own account of the transaction, on page 39 of "Witness," conveys the same ring of truth that reverberates through the whole of Chambers' testimony (Chambers misspelled the dealer's name — it was Schmidt, not Schmitt — but the discrepancy is immaterial). The car was purchased, partly with $400 provided by Hiss, as part of Chambers' concealed plan to break with the party the following year.

The Nation's attackers make a great thing of the dates here involved. Hiss at first had denied knowing Chambers at all. Trapped by an avalanche of detailed evidence, he desperately fashioned a story that he had known Chambers for a few months under the name of "George Crosley." His "best recollection" was that he last saw Crosley "sometime in 1935. Whether it was in the fall or not I am not sure."

Who is fabricating what? Werchen and Cook should examine the record. On page 671 of the House hearings, Chambers testified that he had not seen Hiss "since 1938." On page 1079, it is "about 1938." On page 1178, "I continued to know Mr. Hiss until I broke with the Communist party in early 1938, and I saw him once again toward the end of 1938." The same testimony appears at page 1190. It was Chambers who consistently told the truth; it was Hiss who consistently lied.

WASHINGTON — Justice Department field reports from Missouri, intended for official eyes only, severely criticize Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley for his handling of police brutality cases. Kelley, of course, is President Nixon's latest choice as a permanent director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been several incidents in the last two years of perceived severe police brutality against minority citizens," stated one report filed from Kansas City last year. "No meaningful efforts have been made ... to show the public that the (Police Department) will not tolerate excessive use of force by its officers."

The report called on the Justice Department in Washington "for assistance in dealing with these situations." The field office urged Washington to make its concern known "to effect positive changes in police-community relations." However, there is no evidence that the Justice Department ever followed up on the recommendation.

Meanwhile, another report from Kansas City also criticizes Kelley's dealings with minorities. In April 1968, in the wake of Martin Luther King's assassination, riots broke out in Kansas City and six blacks were killed. A civil disorder report was called for and completed, but five years later many of its recommendations have gone unmet.

"The necessary steps, for example, have not been taken to regain local control of the Police Department," noted one report. "Human relations training should be intensified," it added. The report also recommended that Kelley's department review citizens' complaints more closely and hire more blacks. Even now, however, only 7 per cent of Kelley's 1,300-man force is black.

The Police Department has earned praise for "a number of efforts" that have improved the department's relationship with the community. Kelley, for example, has experimented with store-front offices in the ghetto and has increased the size of his community relations unit.

But one report has noted: "To the extent that change has occurred, federal funding has been the impetus. To the extent that change has not occurred, racism has been the primary impediment." Without federal programs, claims this report, "very little change since the civil disorder would be in evidence."

Footnote: To Kelley's credit, he has made extensive use of computers and helicopters to cut Kansas City's crime rate. He is also sensitive to complaints about the misuse of electronic surveillance. Under Kelley, police use of wiretapping in Kansas City has been tightly controlled and reduced.

McGovern's Security Briefings: The White House gave George McGovern's

Merry-go-round

Kelley blasted for police brutality

security adviser, Paul Warnke, three security briefings during the 1972 campaign. The purpose was to assure continuity in case McGovern won the election.

Now President Nixon has divulged that, in 1970, he authorized surveillance methods (1) which a security adviser warned were "clearly illegal" and (2) which the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover refused to implement. Thereafter, the President went ahead without Hoover to form his own private, parapolice outfit, known as "the plumbers," inside the White House.

As justification, the President claimed radicals and revolutionaries were such a threat to the national security that extralegal steps were necessary.

Yet not a word of this was ever mentioned to Warnke who, as an assistant defense secretary under the late Lyndon Johnson, held the highest security clearance.

The White House briefings were conducted by Gen. Alexander Haig, then Henry Kissinger's No. 2 man. Warnke described them as no more than "textbook" summaries of foreign policy problems. "Domestic threats to national security were never even brought up," he told us.

"Much of the briefings were routine," he recalled. Except for occasional tidbits of international gossip, he was given little information that hadn't already appeared in the press.

One tantalizing tidbit that Warnke pried out of Haig involved India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Warnke asked why the United States had delayed naming a successor to Kenneth Keating as ambassador to India. Haig confided that Madame Gandhi and Ambassador Keating, had engaged in a spat shortly before Keating's departure. Haig described the lady's language as "vitriolic."

The White House, therefore, had decided to delay appointing a new ambassador until Madame Gandhi cooled off.

Of more substance, Warnke disclosed that the White House was optimistic about a Vietnam settlement days before the election. After his last briefing on Oct. 20, 1972, Warnke reported that Haig had been "circumspect" on the subject of Vietnam. "The net impression," wrote Warnke, "is that Henry Kissinger is working feverishly for a settlement." Six days later, Kissinger issued his famous "peace is at hand" statement.

Warnke was also told of rising tensions along the Chinese-Russian border and deteriorating Russian-Egyptian relations, which he had read about in more detail in the Washington Post. He was told the secret number of missile silos, however that the Russians were building.

But the domestic threat to national security, which President Nixon now cites as justification for the bizarre plumbers operation, was never mentioned.

The U.S. Congress on Mar. 1, 1875 passed the first Civil Rights Act which guaranteed equal rights to Negroes in public accommodations and jury duty. This Act was invalidated in 1883, when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the federal government can protect only political, not social, rights. The World Almanac recalls. This ruling allowed segregation to be practiced in public places.

Mobile Home Interest Drops

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State and federal officials are finding that the longer flood victims wait for emergency mobile homes they have been promised, the fewer the number who are interested.

The floods of March and April drove thousands of Missourians from their homes along the Mississippi River. Because there was a shortage of available housing, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development offered free mobile homes, provided the state would furnish the sites.

The state accepted. Government officials continue counting, the number of applicants for the homes steadily dwindles, and still no one has been able to get into a mobile home. The homes were transferred from the east and are stockpiled at Granite City, Ill.

Rep. W.O. "Bob" Howard, D-Elber, is getting upset at the delay.

"People have given up. If they would just see the mobile homes in place they would go for them. A lot of people are still doubling up in homes," Howard said.

The first estimate by Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps' office said 800 mobile homes were needed.

Phelps' assistant, Paul O. Wilson, said by the time an attorney general's opinion on how to administer the state funds was requested and received, the estimate dropped by 200.

Wilson said by the time the emergency appropriations bill of $468,000 reached the Senate, the estimate dropped by another 200.

The state appropriation was for 421 sites, but John Cooper, director of design and construction, said he had commitments for only 19—at Moscow Mills, Clarksville, St. Mary's and Canton.

"We don't know where the people are at," said Cooper, when asked how many mobile homes are needed.

Frank Begley, director of the HUD disaster field office in St. Louis, said "nobody's in a mobile home ... people are changing their minds." He said many applicants in the Arnold area have found other housing, but "there'll be 100 in the St. Mary's area."

HUD officials said earlier this week that some people balked at a proposed site for a group of mobile homes at Palmyra.

"It seems some people in the Hannibal area are unwilling to drive 12 miles to Palmyra," said John Chulick, a federal planning specialist.

"If we have to go to Hannibal, where a completely new site would have to be developed, we are talking about at least another three-week delay."

When the emergency appropriation was requested, House Appropriations Chairman James "Jay" Russell, D-Florissant, warned the mobile homes would reach the flood victims too late to do many of them any good.

Rep. Howard said:

"It's the darned paperwork that's frustrating. I hope if it happens again, we'll be better organized."

Two Men Drown At Lake Jacomo

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Authorities continued searching for the second of two victims who drowned in separate incidents on Lake Jacomo Wednesday.

Edward Whitmire, 52, drowned just before noon when he apparently stepped off an underwater ledge while hunting for crayfish, sheriff's deputies said.

Shortly after removing Whitmire's body, the recovery unit of about 20 divers moved to the south end of the lake to search for a 24-year-old man believed to have drowned there.

Jackson County Sheriff William K. Carnes said he was told James Grasen Periman, Kansas City, jumped from a boat just after noon and failed to surface. Carnes said the information came from two of Periman's companions, who were boating with him.

Morgan Spoils No-Hitter

Wise's 1-hitter Leads Cardinals To Sweep Over Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rick Wise lit up a long cigar and gulped two sodas as he talked about the one that got away—his second major league no-hitter.

"I saw the ball come off the bat and thought 'it's over,'" said the St. Louis pitcher after throwing 8 1/3 innings of no-hit ball in an 8-0 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night.

Joe Morgan of the Reds laced a line drive over Wise's head into center field. It ended the Cardinal pitcher's bid to become the first National League hurler of the century to no-hit the same team twice.

"I tried extra hard, but he did what a good hitter should do. He just punched it out there," said the bespectacled right-hander, who fired a 4-0 no-hitter against the Reds two years ago.

"I shook off a breaking pitch because I wanted to go with my best pitch," said Wise, now 8-3.

Catcher Ted Simmons called for a curve because of Wise's predominant use of a fastball.

"He was just challenging them, as if to say, 'if you're gonna do it, do it,'" said Simmons. "He had pinpoint control all night. He's not a fireballer. He just paints the outside corner all the time with his exceptional control."

Ten feet away, Luis Melendez blushed sheepishly as his teammates directed loud congratulations meant more for the press corps which encircled Wise. "Don't forget Loeey," came the light-hearted jabs.

Melendez grand slam homer keyed a seven-run third inning explosion. But it was nearly forgotten as attention focused on the drama of Wise's bid.

Wise, who said the sticky, 75-degree temperatures kept him from stiffening up, said he was aware of his no-hitter all along.

"Listen, you always know that, but you don't think you really have a shot until around the seventh inning. I went with the fast ball most of the time and kept it away from them," said the 27-year-old Portland, Ore., native.

Wise, who lost 12 one-run games last year to finish 16-16, struck out four and walked three.

The loser was Reds' ace Jack Billingham, 8-3.

Weaver Backs Up Young Outfielder

Coggins' Mistakes Open Door for 2-0 KC Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rich Coggins of Baltimore made two crucial mistakes as the Orioles dropped a 2-0 decision to Kansas City, but Manager Earl Weaver was far from critical of the young outfielder.

"People in Baltimore are spoiled," Weaver said after Wednesday night's game.

"They don't see that very often."

Coggins misplayed the winning two-run double by Kansas City's Lou Piniella with two outs in the eighth inning, and his base running cost the Orioles at least one run in the third.

"Heck, kids are going to make mistakes," Weaver said. "Veterans make mistakes. You can't play all year without them."

Coggins hesitated before retreating on Piniella's hit, and then turned the wrong way before the slicing drive fell just out of reach and bounced off the right field fence.

The hit pinned the defeat on Dave McNally, whose 5-8 record includes four setbacks in which the Orioles have been shut out and two other losses in extra innings.

Coggins, always a center fielder before joining the Orioles last season, is still having difficulty in adjusting to the slices encountered in right.

In the third, Al Bumbry and Coggins opened with singles but Coggins was out trying to advance on the throw toward third base.

"I hesitated because I didn't think they'd try to get Bumbry," Coggins said. "After that, I should have gone back to first. But after the ball went over the cutoff man, I tried to make it."

"His thinking was all right," Weaver said, "but the little in-decision cost him. It would have been worse had Bumbry been thrown out, and Coggins was still standing on first."

Immediately after that play, Davis rapped a hard grounder which Kansas City rookie Frank White smothered at shortstop to prevent a run.

"The play by White was the key," said Manager Jack McKeon of Kansas City. "He played a great game in his first major league start." White was called up after the injured Fred Patek was placed on the disabled list.

Drago, who hurled his sixth complete game in his last 10 starts, stranded five runners in scoring position during the first five innings.

Budweiser, Clear Creek Advance

In the Men's Tri-County Softball League Tournament Wednesday night in Hubbard Park, Budweiser and Clear Creek eliminated Windsor and Sweet Springs in losers' bracket action by scores of 8-6 and 13-0 respectively.

Budweiser's win was credited to Tom Borgen, who got relief help from Larry Cureton in the sixth. Ronald Vinson homered for the winners with none on in the sixth.

Vernon Reno was the losing pitcher.

The Clear Creek-Sweet Springs game went only five innings with Steve Stockline getting the victory. Curtis Kammerich homered with one on in the fifth.

Two games are scheduled tonight, in the winners' bracket. S-M Sporting Goods meets LaMonte at 9 p.m.; the night's opener pits Wednesday night's winners against each other at 7:30 p.m.

The tourney will be Friday or Saturday.

Over Lack of Trades

McKeon Blasts KC Front Office

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There were indications today of strained feelings between Manager Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals and the Royals front office over the club's efforts to secure new players.

McKeon, in Baltimore, criticized the Royals' front office for not being more aggressive in attempting to acquire such players as Deron Johnson, Jim Ray Hart and Sam McDowell.

McKeon leveled the criticism after the Royals had lost a 6-4 game Tuesday night to the Baltimore Orioles. He said the Royals, in effect, were standing still while other American League clubs were getting new players.

"When I say I'm hacked off we haven't be able to make a trade," McKeon said, "that is exactly what I mean — we. That includes me. I'm not trying to blame anybody. I'm just trying to get the man who will help us."

"After a losing game, a manager may say things that he will regret later," said General Manager Cedric Tallis. "I hope this is what happened in the case of Jack."

"It's a free country and Jack can say whatever he wants to say, but whether or not he's right is another matter. I think that Jack, being a first year manager, is overanxious. He would like to win, and so would I."

"It would have been possible for us to get Hart last year but there was no designated hitter rule then. Hart had a bad record with his knee and all. He still doesn't move well. We sent a scout to see him and did not get a favorable report. This season we did not have a chance to get him."

"We were not aware that McDowell was available. I'm not sure whether McDowell was offered to anyone other than the Yankees. We tried to get Pat Dobson from Atlanta but we couldn't get waivers on one of our players."

"We knew the Yankees were trying to deal Mike Kekich but we felt Kekich had been to the well once to often and had been found wanting."

The New York Yankees obtained Hart, McDowell and Dobson. Kekich was traded by the Yankees several days ago to Cleveland.

Tallis said he did not think McKeon's criticism would "necessarily create an awkward situation in our organization. If the situation had been reversed, if I had been criticizing Jack, then I feel it would be an awkward situation. I look on it as something said in the heat of battle. I'm just going to say that Jack was upset and let it go at that."

Amazing Brewers Into Deadlock for Second

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Milwaukee Brewers used to live in the cellar but now find themselves in the penthouse.

Long an American League doormat, the Brewers have discovered room at the top in the East Division.

"We've proven we can play with all the clubs in both divisions," said Johnny Briggs after the upstart Brewers nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3 Wednesday night for their sixth straight victory and 11th in 12 games.

The triumph put Milwaukee into a tie for second place with the Detroit Tigers, just a half-game off the New York Yankees' East-leading pace.

In the other American League games, the Texas Rangers whipped the Cleveland Indians 4-2; the Kansas City Royals blanked the Baltimore Orioles 2-0; the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 10-2; the California Angels downed the Boston Red Sox 7-5 and the New York Yankees belted the Oakland A's 8-3.

National League scores: Philadelphia 16, Los Angeles 3; Montreal 3, San Diego 2; New York 3, San Francisco 1; Atlanta 18, Pittsburgh 3; St. Louis 8, Cincinnati 0 and Houston 6, Chicago 1.

Wimbledon Boycott Threatened

LONDON (AP) — Nearly 100 of the world's top tennis stars are preparing to boycott Wimbledon if it suspended Yugoslav star Nikke Pilic is not allowed to play.

Pilic is under suspension by the International Lawn Tennis Federation for failing to play on the Yugoslav national team in a recent Davis Cup match against New Zealand. Meanwhile, Pilic was barred for life from his nation's team Wednesday by the Yugoslav Tennis Federation.

The Association of Tennis Professionals then reiterated earlier demands that if Pilic is not allowed to play, none of its 97 members would perform at Wimbledon. That would reduce the classic event which starts June 25 to a women's tournament plus a men's singles contest by second-ranking players. All of the U.S. Davis Cup team, including reigning Wimbledon champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., would be involved in the boycott.

with a single to lead Texas over Cleveland and Gaylord Perry.

Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte, noting Perry's unimpressive 6-7 record, said: "I'm not worried about Perry. He has been in slumps before and has worked out of them."

Braves, Phils Punish Foes

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
The National League, the only major baseball league in the universe without designated hitters, got down to basics Wednesday night and proved why there are no additives or artificial ingredients in its product.

—The Atlanta Braves' Darrell Evans continued a streak which gave him 19 straight plate appearances without an official out.

—The Montreal Expos pulled off a triple play.

—The Atlanta Braves scored 18 runs.

—The Philadelphia Phillies scored 16 runs.

Not bad for a league that thinks DH means double header, eh?

And in the National League, St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 8-0; Atlanta embarrassed Pittsburgh 18-3; Montreal edged San Diego 3-2; Philadelphia punished Los Angeles 16-3; New York beat San Francisco 3-1 and Houston defeated Chicago 6-1.

The scores in the American League were: Kansas City 2, Baltimore 0; Texas 4, Cleveland 2; Chicago 10, Detroit 2; Milwaukee 3, Minnesota 2; California 7, Boston 5 and New York 8, Oakland 3.

Evans' 14th homer of the season highlighted a six-run fourth which erased a 3-2 Pittsburgh lead and Atlanta went on to collect a total of 17 hits and the victory.

The Phillies also built up their batting averages as every starter except Cesar Tovar hit safely. The Phils rolled sixes in each of the first two innings and coasted to an easy victory over the Dodgers.

Winning pitcher Ken Brett, who joined the offensive fireworks with a solo homer, boosted his record to 5-2.

The hockey fans in Montreal might have called it a hat trick, but in baseball parlance, it's known as a triple play. The Expos made their contribution to conserving energy when they recorded all the necessary outs in one inning on the same play during their victory over the Padres.

WHCC Competition

At Wednesday's scratch and scramble ladies day golf competition at Walnut Hills Country Club, Hilda McRoy and Mick Joy carded a 47 to win the top honors in A-flight.

First in B-flight was captured by Jackie Stockwood and Jeanette Viebrock, who had a combined total of 53½; Rita Tippie and Jo Curry combined for a 63½ to win C-flight.

Wednesday's competition, which gets underway at 8:30 a.m., will be a string-a-long tourney.

So. Cal. Bumps ASU for Crown

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Baseball dynasties aren't dead, just ask Arizona State.

The top-rated collegiate team suffered a 4-3 loss here Wednesday night to Southern California and for the fourth straight year the Trojans carted home the national collegiate baseball crown.

"We were young and scrappy, but we said we could play with anybody," said USC Coach Rod Dedeaux. "And that's the way we won it. We scrapped."

Southern California, 51-11, didn't wow anyone with hitting, but won the College World Series in its typical methodical manner—with good defense and by taking advantage of the breaks.

"Throughout the game, whenever it seemed we might be able to score a few runs, or break out, they came up with the super defensive play," said Arizona Coach Jim Brock.

"They had at least five super defensive plays," he continued. "Their defensive play throughout the game proved to be the difference."

And an end of Southern California dominance isn't in sight.

"We wanted this title very badly," continued Dedeaux, who has coached eight of the nine Trojans title clubs.

"We are an extremely young team, losing only (Daryl) Arenstein and (Craig) Barnes off the entire roster. If we keep this team intact we'll have a pretty good club next year."

Keeping the talent around is a problem at USC, six players off the 1973 title club were drafted by major league teams and a most probably will sign.

Southern California bunched eight of its nine hits in the first four innings to build a 4-0 lead and then repeatedly held off Arizona State, 59-8, in the battle of college baseball's two superpowers.

Final containment came from the arm of sophomore Jeff Reinke, who threw no-hit ball over the final three and two-thirds innings to save the victory for Mark Barr.

Reinke, a sophomore who is at USC on a basketball scholarship, typifies what college teams have to contend with when they face the Trojans.

He didn't have a mound decision all year, but when called upon in a crucial situation produced.

Reinke pitched out of a two-on, one-out jam in the sixth by allowing only a run on a wild pitch and got the final 11 outs without permitting a base runner.

"He did a super job," said the 58-year-old Dedeaux. "He got the ball over and the defense did the job behind him."

Southern California scored twice in the first on a double by Roy Smalley, Ken Bowman's single, an error and Ken Huizenga's single and added two in the third on back-to-back doubles by Bowman and Huizenga and an error by Sun Devil reliever pitcher Doug Slocum.

Arizona State, which finished No. 2 for a second straight year after coming to the double-elimination classic top-ranked, scored two runs in the fourth and a one in the sixth before Reinke shut the door.

Leftfielder Huizenga made a diving catch of Clint Myers liner for the first out of the ninth inning.

"That was the obvious turning point," offered Brock. "That showed what they can do on defense. They have maybe five of the best defensive players at their positions in the college ranks."

Dedeaux agreed that Huizenga's play was decisive.

"If he doesn't get that ball we've got a guy at least on second with nobody out," offered Dedeaux. "But he went after it and made the play. He's a major league prospect who made a major league play and that's what champions are made of."

Brock had wanted to start ace lefthander Eddie Bane, 15-1, in the must come, but was forced to go with Jim Umbarger.

"Eddie's throwing arm was stiff and sore," noted Brock. "He was willing to pitch, but I couldn't take a chance on injuring his arm."

If Arizona State had won, the series would have went to a climatic 15th game.

"It doesn't make any difference whether you lose the first night or second," concluded Brock. "In our position we knew it was going to take two victories."

Last year it was USC that came up with 3-1 and 1-0 triumphs in a similar situation to beat out Arizona State.

The Sun Devils' only other loss this year in the tournament was 3-1 to USC last Monday.

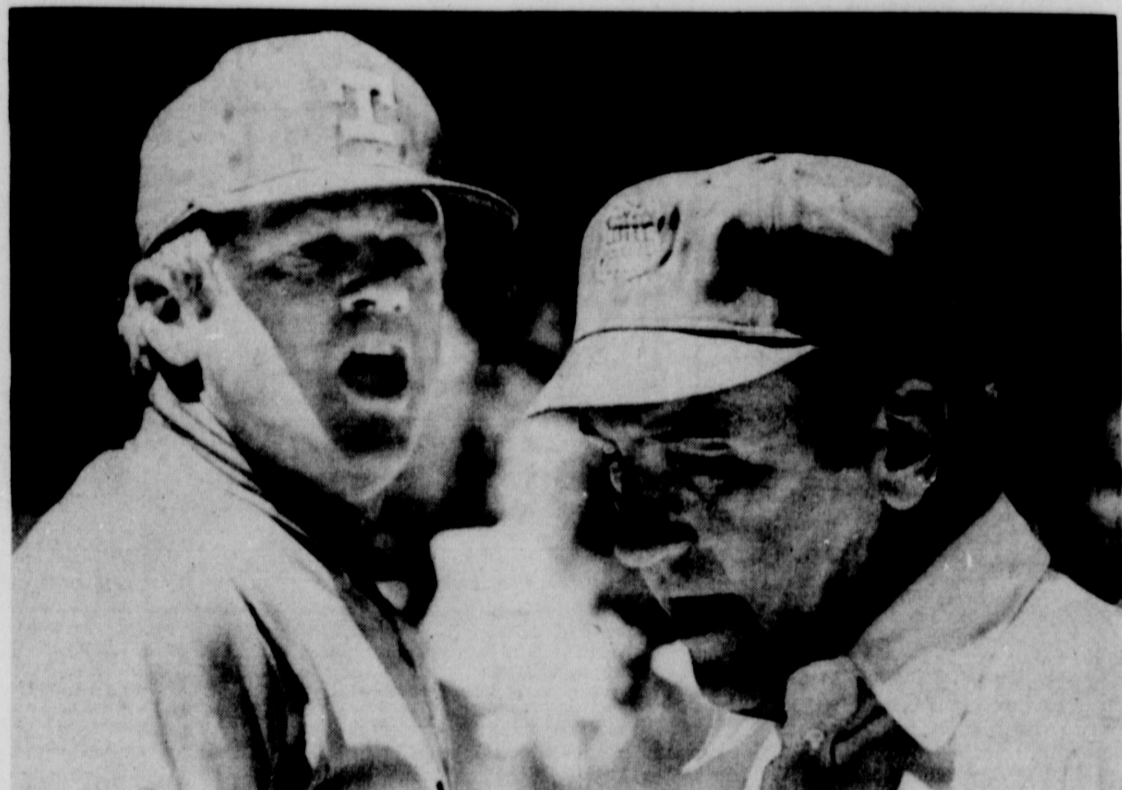

USC became the seventh team in the 27-year history of the eight-team classic to capture the crown without a loss. The others: California (1947 and 1957), Texas (1949), Oklahoma (1951) and Southern California (1961 and 1968).

The total six-day attendance of 65,356 was the fourth best in the 24 years the classic has been played in Omaha and was record for a 14 game series. The final night crowd was 12,050—sixth largest ever.

AAU Track

Liquori, Prefontaine In Co-favorite Roles

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Marty Liquori has run just four races all year. But he rates as a co-favorite with Steve Prefontaine in the mile race at the 85th National AAU championships beginning tonight at Memorial Stadium.

The mile, traditionally the feature event, stands out, but not by much, over the half-mile.

Liquori was the public address announcer for the International Track Association this year and began his training late. He ran a 3:57.8 mile in his first race, then ran a 1:51.0 half-mile and added a 3:58.7 mile.

It is uncertain whether Liquori and Prefontaine will hook up in the same heat, because meet officials have not yet drawn for the heats. But both will be favored to advance to Saturday night's final.

In half-mile, Dave Wottle and Rick Wohlhuter, each a world record holder, also are expected to clash for the first time since the Olympic Trials of 1972. In that race, Wottle won in world 800-meter record time of 1:44.3 with Wohlhuter second in 1:45.0.

The 880-yard preliminaries also will be tonight, and the draw for that event also has not been announced.

The top two American finishers in each event will be invited to be members of the U.S. squad which will meet West Germany, Italy and Russia later this year in dual meets. A number of foreign stars are competing here, too.

Tonight's schedule calls for preliminaries in many events. Finals are Friday and Saturday.

Five Picked For Hockey Hall Honors

MONTREAL (AP)—Doug Harvey, an All-Star 13 times in his colorful National Hockey League career, was one of five men selected Wednesday for induction into the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Also named to the Hall by the selection committee were Chuck Rayner, a goalie who won the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player in 1949-50; the late Tommy Smith, who played with seven clubs from 1906 through 1920; Frank Udvari, a former referee who now is the NHL's supervisor of officials, and Hartland de M. Molson, a former owner of the Montreal Canadiens.

Harvey, Rayner and Smith were named as players. Udvari and Molson in the category of builders. The announcement came during the annual NHL meetings here.

The five will be formally inducted in ceremonies to be held at the Hall in Toronto in August.

The Professor's only problem after his partner opened with three spades was to decide if game would be a cinch. In that case he wanted to bid the game. If there were to be a problem in the play, he wanted to stop at a part score since his partner played the dummy rather badly. Finally the Professor raised to game.

Dummy's jack of hearts held the first trick. South thought a while, or at least looked at dummy's king of spades and then leading a heart toward his king.

East ruffed and led a low diamond. West won with the king and shifted to a club. South thought some more but it didn't matter what he did. The birds had flown.

"Could I have led a diamond and made the contract?" he asked.

"No, you couldn't," replied the Professor.

Some time later, when the game was over, the student who had been watching asked the Professor why he had not told his partner how the hand could have been made.

The Professor's reply should serve as a warning to those players who like to pontificate at the table.

He said, "Of course, he could have overtaken dummy's king of spades with his ace; cashed the queen of trumps; led the king of hearts and made the contract, but why upset him? He was still my partner."

Arms, Economic Ties Summit Meeting Topics

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon and Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev are expected to concentrate on arms limitations and closer economic ties in their "working summit meeting" that opens here next Monday.

U.S. officials caution in advance that Brezhnev's June 18-26 visit is not likely to produce any major breakthroughs comparable to the agreement on defensive weapons signed by Nixon when he visited the Soviet Union last spring.

For example, they would be surprised if Nixon and Brezhnev accomplished anything spectacular on the Middle East, where war and peace are considered to remain very much in the hands of the Arab states and Israel.

Some half-dozen pacts will be ready for announcement during the summit, but they are relatively minor in importance.

In a Wednesday night speech devoted mainly to the economy,

Nixon said of the summit: "I can confidently predict that out of our meetings will come major new progress toward reducing both the burden of arms and the danger of war."

Nixon and Brezhnev hope to decide on the broad directions that should be taken at Salt II, the now-recessed negotiations in Geneva on offensive arms. And they would like to find ways to improve trade between their two countries, although the President does not have to remind the Soviet leader that Congress will have the final say.

Brezhnev's visit is in return for Nixon's trip to Russia. Brezhnev's arrival date is still up in the air, although Monday is set at the official opening of the visit. He could come here Saturday or Sunday and stay either at Camp David or Blair House, across from Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, before seeing Nixon.

American Jewish organizations plan to protest against Soviet restrictions on Jewish emigration while Brezhnev is visiting the United States. A "Freedom Assembly for Soviet Jews" is scheduled near the Capitol on Sunday. Brezhnev may run into other demonstrations if he goes to San Clemente or to other cities.

The agreements being readied for the summit sessions include provisions for joint exploration of the oceans, broader cultural exchanges, ways to collect taxes from nationals of one country working in the other, exchanges of experts and research in transportation and exchanges of agricultural information.

Disabled Can Get Payments

Widows receiving Social Security survivors payments and who have been severely disabled for the last two years may be eligible for Medicare, as of July 1, "but they must file a disability claim," according to C. Kent Charles, Social Security district manager in Sedalia.

Medicare has been available only to persons 65 years old and over. Starting in July, however, the government health care insurance will be extended automatically to all disabled persons under 65 if they've received monthly Social Security disability payments for two years or more.

"But some severely disabled widows 50 and over have never applied for disability payments. Generally they've been getting Social Security survivors benefits because they're 60 or over or they've been getting benefits as widowed mothers who have young or disabled children in their care," Charles said.

"To get Medicare, these widows should file a claim for disability payments as soon as possible. If a widow is unable to make the contact, a friend or relative may help. If necessary, arrangements can be made for a Social Security representative to visit her," he added.

He also announced that as of July 1 the basic monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare will be $6.30, an increase of 50 cents a month over the current rate.

Testifies Fear of Nixon Defeat Prompted Watergate Plan and Coverup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder testified Thursday that John N. Mitchell and other former officials participated with him in planning the Watergate wiretapping, then joined in the cover-up attempt fearing disclosure would cost President Nixon the 1972 election.

Magruder, the No. 2 man to Mitchell in the campaign, told the Senate Watergate hearings he had assumed H.R. Haldeman knew who was involved, but said the former White House chief of staff told him last January that was not the case.

And, he said, he had no knowledge Nixon was aware "of our errors in this matter."

Magruder said the June 17 break-in was planned at meetings with Mitchell—who was then attorney general—and John W. Dean III, the official White House lawyer. The espionage program was presented, he said, by G. Gordon Liddy, who received authorization to spend $250,000 after more grandiose plans costing $1 million had been rejected.

Magruder said he told Haldeman the whole story in January while the trial of Liddy and James W. McCord Jr. was in progress and that Haldeman thus knew that perjury would be committed at the trial.

But, Magruder said, "he didn't know it had been committed until after the trial."

Magruder told the senators that he talked with Haldeman about what would be done for him should he confess his part in the matter to prosecutors—whether he would be offered money for his family, a job after prison and possibly executive clemency.

"What did Haldeman say about executive clemency?" Magruder was asked.

"He was very careful to say he had no authority over that issue and could not speak to that," he replied.

Magruder was asked repeatedly whether Haldeman knew about the bugging plans while they were being formulated.

"It would be unfair to Mr. Haldeman to say that he knew about it, because I don't know that," Magruder said. "I cannot specifically comment on direct approval of these plans or knowledge of these plans by Mr. Haldeman. I don't know he knew of these plans beforehand."

"It is my understanding (Gordon) Strachan passed to Mr. Haldeman what he, Strachan, deemed important enough for Mr. Haldeman."

In a recent civil suit deposition, Haldeman denied he had any knowledge of the plans or coverup.

Magruder was testifying to the Senate

Watergate committee under immunity from prosecution for anything he might say. He said he had agreed to plead guilty to one count of conspiracy in return for his testimony against others who may be indicted.

While the burglary plans were being worked out with G. Gordon Liddy in the first three months of last year, Magruder said, Haldeman aide Strachan received reports of everything being discussed.

"I am not privileged to the memos that went between Dean and Strachan and Haldeman and the others at the White House," he said. "My first discussion with Haldeman was the Sunday after the break-in. I did not have further discussions with him until January."

In that earlier conversation, on June 18, Magruder said, Haldeman ordered him to clear up the problems caused by the arrest of James W. McCord Jr., who was security chief of Nixon's re-election committee.

Magruder said he had no knowledge the President was aware "of our errors in this matter."

"It's very easy for me to see how he would not be aware," Magruder said. "I'm just positive that many things occurred in the White House that he was not aware of. It was just the way that system worked."

Move To New City Hall Is Set Back

The date for moving City Hall records, equipment and furniture into the new Municipal Building has been set back to June 28, Mayor Jerry Jones announced Thursday.

Jones said the move was made from the original June 21 date at the recommendation of architect Don Buller and City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison, who conducted a complete inspection of the new building Wednesday.

Garrison Thursday said the recommendation was made "because of a lack of certain materials that have not yet arrived." Among these items, Garrison said, were acoustical ceiling tiles, lighting fixtures and elevator equipment.

However, it was reported Thursday morning by a spokesman for the Dean Construction Co., the building's general contractor, that work was progressing on the ceiling tile installation because Bob Estill, owner of Able Acoustics Inc., Raytown, had personally picked up the necessary tiles from suppliers in Wichita and Topeka.

"We couldn't afford to wait any longer on getting the tiles shipped," Estill later said. "I've had the stuff on order for five months and we couldn't wait any longer."

Regarding the elevator equipment, Buller Wednesday indicated that numerous attempts have been made lately to obtain the elevator doors and cab from the Rafiner Elevator Co., Kansas City, which was awarded the contract to supply the machine. "We've got all the other necessary equipment. We're just waiting for these two items," said Buller.

A spokesman for the Queen City Electric Co., which is handling the installation of electrical fixtures in the building, told The Democrat-Capitol that, while they are waiting on supplies, "we're still keeping our men busy."

Both the Dean Co. spokesman and Queen City officials stressed that the absence of fixtures will not hamper the usage of the building.

"They're mostly high ceiling lights," the Dean Co. spokesman said. "There will still be plenty of light for usage of the building."

An inspection of the building revealed that, besides the yet-to-be-completed installation of ceiling tiles and lighting fixtures, there are still numerous odds and ends that need to be taken care of.

For example, there probably isn't a single protective plate around the numerous light switches throughout the building. Also, a few red-white-and-blue wires still protrude from walls.

However, Leonard Warren, a Dean employee who is supervising the entire project, isn't worried. "We'll get it all done in plenty of time," he said. "We want to get out of here just as bad as the city officials want to move in."

'Homework' Apparent

Department Heads Are Well Prepared

It was apparent that department heads meeting Wednesday evening with the City Council had done their "homework" concerning budget requests.

The meeting, technically of the finance and taxes committee but with Mayor Jerry Jones, City Clerk Ralph Dedrick and three other councilmen in attendance, was held in Dedrick's office and included conversation with representatives of several city departments.

Discussion was routine and no obstacles to any budget requests were encountered. Present for half-hour periods were William Miller, chief of police; Willis Jabas, fire chief; Bill Burkholder, president of the Airport Board; and City Engineer Robert Cunningham who was on hand to answer questions about budget requests for the street and alley, and sewer and sanitation departments.

The $406,050 request from the police department is primarily made up of scheduled salary increases and four new civilian, female dispatchers to be employed after the department moves into the new city hall. Miller explained that some of the budget is carryover from items allowed last year that haven't yet been delivered and therefore haven't been paid for.

George Dugan Jr., chairman of the finance and taxes committee, asked why the four new employees would be listed as "non-police" personnel. Miller noted that including them in the merit system would require complete alteration of the size requirements for police, and added that as non-police employees they would come under a lower wage schedule.

There was some disagreement, mainly between Miller and Jones, about whether the police records clerk, who also performs various other office and clerical duties, should be paid a premium over the salaries of field officers, the current policy. Nothing was settled, however, and Jones commented at the end of the discussion that he was just expressing his opinion and that the final decision is in the hands of the council. Miller maintained that the extra training necessary to handle records and police fines should earn extra pay. Jones said an officer on patrol should not earn less than an individual remaining in the station doing clerical work.

The $359,095 request submitted by the fire department doesn't represent any personnel increases. Jabas said. He pointed out that the council might begin consideration of the purchase of a new hook and ladder truck sometime in the next two years. He explained that a recent estimate on the department's hook and ladder vehicle indicated three more years of satisfactory service could be obtained from it and that it takes approximately two years for delivery of a new truck.

Burkholder said the airport's $37,706 request, more than $12,000 higher than last year's allotment, includes an additional employee for six months of the year to assist with mowing work, a new tractor to be used in snow removal and mowing, and increased electricity charges. It was indicated at the end of the session that the airport would probably need more funds than were requested to adequately cover

Firemen Question Physicals

The present wage dispute between the Pettis County Court and county firefighters Local 2228 may have affected two recent decisions by the court, the union representatives here contend.

The decisions were discussed by the court and firefighters Robert Paxton and Howard Teague, both Local 2228 officials, at a meeting Wednesday morning.

Specifically, the firefighters asked the court why the judges recently decided to impose mandatory physical examinations on the six-man fire department and why Ronnie Ollison was recently promoted to serve as acting fire chief.

Paxton said, "It has been rumored that the physicals are a way to dissolve the union." The firefighters' union was formed about a month ago with three of the present six firefighters as members.

The officials said the minimum requirement for union membership is three employees. Besides Paxton and Teague, the other union member of the six employees is Robert Sisemore, the fire chief who is presently recuperating from injuries he sustained in an accident, the officials said. Paxton said since Sisemore probably could not pass such a physical, the union faces the threat of becoming dissolved.

"None of us oppose the idea of a yearly physical," Paxton said, "but it's the idea behind it we don't like."

Presiding Judge Harry Welch said the court decided to make the yearly physical mandatory "because the city does it that way." Welch denied that the court took the action "for the expressed purpose of dissolving the union."

Western District Judge John Blumh agreed with Welch that the court is not trying to suppress the union. "I don't have a thing against unions, but I don't want

$1.50 Per Year

Assessment Plan Is Sent To Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to set the statewide assessment of property for tax purposes at 33 1-3 per cent of true value cleared both houses of the Missouri legislature Thursday night.

The original House bill called for a 30 per cent rate, but the Senate approved the 33 1-3 figure.

The bill was sent to a joint House-Senate conference committee, where it was amended to make the effective date of the bill Dec. 1, 1974.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Richard DeCoster, D-Canton, came about as a result of a Missouri Supreme Court decision. A St. Charles County taxpayer brought suit, asking that his property be assessed at 100 per cent of true value.

The suit maintained the state Constitution and statutory law do now set a statewide level of assessment, so property could be taxed at 100 per cent.

The high court ruled against the suit on technical grounds, but said the legislature should resolve the question on the percentage used.

The House passed and sent to the governor a bill to provide increased aid to persons receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments.

The measure passed by the House was a Senate version, which lowered the amount of aid approved earlier by the House.

"I have done everything possible to maintain the House position," said Rep. James Conway, D-St. Louis, "but due to the late hour and the intransigence of the Senate, I ask the House to approve the conference committee version."

The House had originally proposed raising the monthly aid for needy relatives from $33 to $63, monthly aid for the first child in the family from $43 to $63 and aid for each additional child from $24 to $34.

The Senate version, which was approved 145-6, provided only a $5 raise in each category.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to provide a pay raise for policemen and firemen in St. Louis.

But the Senate rejected a House proposal to raise salaries of lawmakers.

The pay raise bill grants 5 per cent increase to police and fire personnel and raises the police chief's salary from $26,182 a year to $27,482.

The Senate's 16-13 rejection of an amendment to raise legislators' pay from $8,400 yearly to $10,800 was the latest of several maneuvers over the controversial pay increase.

The amendment was on a Senate bill to remove the limit of 200 legislative staff employees. It now goes back to a joint conference committee.

Earlier this session, the legislators passed a bill to increase their daily expense allowance from $10 to $25.

The Senate approved a conference committee report on a bill to replace the manufacturers' ad valorem tax on autos with a tax stamp of $3.50 for each new car sold and $1.50 for used ones. It still needs House approval.

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor a bill allowing blind and disabled persons to get help in marking their ballots at home.

The House spent three hours passing resolutions, one of which calls for a legislative committee to investigate the personnel turnover in state government.

Rep. Richard Rothman, D-Clayton, the majority floor leader, said although Gov. Christopher S. Bond campaigned on a pledge to end the patronage system,

Democrats are being fired "just because they're of a different political faith."

Republicans tried to make it a bipartisan study, but their amendment failed.

Other resolutions passed called for:

—The House to make its own investigation of reports that $100 million in sales taxes were lost because of irregularities involving the Department of Revenue.

—The House to study the energy crisis.

—Keeping the Pruitt-Igde housing project in St. Louis open.

—Representatives not to frequent the Meadow Lake Acres Country Club near Jefferson City until the management defines its policies on admitting blacks.

Senate Approval To Sunshine Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A public disclosure law, the first bill introduced in the Missouri Senate six months ago, was approved for the final time by the Senate Thursday after weeks of delay in the House.

Before it reaches the governor's desk, the House must agree to accept the compromise bill, drafted in a joint conference committee. The legislature adjourns Friday night.

The bill, which was passed in the Senate and not acted on until Tuesday in the House, requires that roll call votes of all public bodies be publicly recorded and that all meetings of governmental bodies must be open to the public.

There is no penalty for violation other than a circuit court injunction to force a city council, for example, to keep its meetings open.

Shortly before the 30-0 vote, the sponsor, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, moved to send the government reorganization bill back to a conference committee. Cason had delayed granting the second reorganization conference for several days, pending the conference committee on the open meetings bill.

The Senate approved a compromise bill on reorganization but the House rejected it.

The House had removed a section requiring recording of roll call votes but the conferees restored that section when Cason agreed to a section on arrest records requested by Rep. J.B. "Jet" Banks and Sen. Raymond Howard, both Democrats of St. Louis.

It provides that if any person is arrested and not charged with an offense within 30 days of his arrest, all records shall be closed to the public. In St. Louis, if there is no conviction within one year after the records are closed, all records of the arrest and jailing shall be destroyed.

Further, all records of the arrest, if the person is acquitted, shall be closed except to the person arrested or charged.

Rollbacks Threatened

Launch New Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration launched its new 60-day price freeze Thursday with a bigger enforcement staff and the threat of price rollbacks in seven to nine industries.

The Cost of Living Council also expressed concern that prices of red meat are close to their March 29 ceilings and are threatening to put a financial squeeze on some supermarkets and processors.

Generally, however, the switch to the price freeze went smoothly. The council, which administered President Nixon's 1971 90-day freeze, was ready with the answers to most questions. And it had its regulations already on the books.

The atmosphere was dramatically different from the confusion of the first freeze. And so was the reaction; it was decidedly low key and more restrained than the almost universal praise that greeted Nixon's first freeze.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who was a stern critic of Nixon's 1971 step, was skeptical.

"We of the AFL-CIO will look for concrete evidence that Phase 4, following the end of the freeze, will be more effective, fair and equitable than the previous phases of the past 22 months," Meany said.

The stock market appeared to be just as skeptical, showing an unenthusiastic initial response. The dollar strengthened somewhat in foreign exchange markets, but not a great deal.

At the Cost of Living Council, James W. McLane, named to head up a team enforcing the freeze, told newsmen that an Internal Revenue Service "profit and price sweep" will result in price rollbacks in seven to nine industries.

McLane only named two, electrical equipment and chemicals. The "sweep" was announced by Nixon to check companies that boosted prices by more than 1.5 per cent before the freeze went into effect.

It was also disclosed that 2,000 agents will enforce the freeze. There will be another 1,000 agents enforcing the wage and other regulations of Phase 3, still in effect.

McLane said the post-freeze controls could include stiffer standards and a broader coverage of companies which now must clear their price boosts with the government in advance.

The March 29 meat ceilings remain in effect, McLane said, under the meat price freeze imposed then.

Nixon bought time in freezing prices. He said the next phase of controls will be worked out after consultations with labor, business and the public. A spokesman for Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said the consultations may not start until next week, if then.

Neither wages, interest rates, nor dividends are covered by the freeze. There are few exemptions. Alimony payments is one. The key exemption is for raw agricultural products sold by farmers. After the first sale, however, the freeze takes effect.

Flag Day a time to review history

By presidential proclamation, June 14 is Flag Day, a day set aside for honoring and displaying the flag of the United States.

A bit of flag history is appropriate on this date. The following draws heavily from "Your Flag," a new publication of the Boy Scouts of America.

Although this nation declared its independence on July 4, 1776, it was almost a year later before a national flag was designated. On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress adopted the following brief resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the 13 United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white: that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

This hasty wording failed to specify how the stars and stripes would be arranged, and a bewildering variety of flags soon proliferated, all conforming to the language of the resolution. It was not until 1912, after the American flag had been officially changed 24 times, that its proportions were standardized by order of President William Howard Taft.

The current version of Old Glory dates from July 4, 1960, following the admission of Alaska and Hawaii to statehood. This was the 27th official version of the flag.

Flag lore has its share of legends, and, hard as it may be to swallow, Betsy Ross may well be one of them. There is no historical evidence that Betsy sewed the first stars and stripes from George Washington's design. But there was a Betsy Ross who did make some ships' ensigns for the Philadelphia Navy Board.

Instead of Betsy Ross, a man by the name of Francis Hopkinson is credited as being the most likely designer of the American flag. Hopkinson, besides holding important posts in the new revolutionary government, was a recognized designer. He billed the Continental Congress $2,700 for services rendered, which included designs for currency, the Great Seal of the U.S., a treasury seal, and — "a design for the flag."

Job bias against students

Recently I accompanied my daughter to seek summer employment at one of Sedalia's large discount stores. She is planning to attend Southwest Baptist College this fall. We were told that they would not even consider those that would be going out of town to school. They give priority to those who are attending State Fair Community College, and informed us that many other Sedalia stores abide by the same policy, which we found to be true in at least one other instance.

Their reason? So that some of them might continue to work part-time after school starts. This is logical and justifiable in their eyes, I suppose, but don't you think this is a little discriminatory? Just because a young person chooses to go to a fine Christian college in Missouri, does this mean that they do not need to work just as badly as those attending SFCC?

...I am not knocking SFCC in the least. I think it is a fine college and have supported it in every election ... but I just think the employers of Sedalia should consider it important for a young person to work, regardless of where they choose to go to school.

For the White House—Secretariat

WASHINGTON — One thing that everyone in this country seems to agree on is that we must restore faith in the executive branch of the government. Although President Nixon has appointed new people to the White House, most of them are old faces that just have been moved around from one post to another.

Buchwald

What the nation needs desperately is someone in the White House who has the complete and unequivocal backing of all the American people — someone who has never been touched by scandal of any kind; whose credibility is unquestioned and who is a symbol of everything Americans believe their leaders should be.

The only one on the American scene to do this is Secretariat, the triple-crown winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

If President Nixon would appoint Secretariat to an important position in the White House, he would be going a long way toward his promise of cleaning house and restoring the image of the presidency. Mr. Nixon would be saying to the American people, "You want new faces in the White House. I'm giving you a winner."

Now before you scoff at my suggestion I would like to point out there is a precedent for such an appointment. The Roman Emperor Caligula appointed his own horse as a consul to Rome. It's true Caligula did this to show his contempt for the Senate, but I don't think any self-respecting person believes that Mr. Nixon would appoint Secretariat for the same reason.

As a special assistant to the President, Secretariat could accompany the President to Camp David and San Clemente. Mr. Nixon could confide in him without fear that his conversation would be leaked to the press. And when the President gets tired and weary from all the affairs of state, he could ride Secretariat around the White House lawn.

The 3-year-old stallion could also fulfill other functions in the White House. When Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, or his assistant Gerald Warren, receive a particularly tough question they could say, "We'll check that out with Secretariat and get back to you later." Or if Secretariat can't answer it, they can always reply "That's a horse of a different color."

Secretariat could show up for political fund-raising dinners and at congressional hearings. He could get involved in the energy crisis and go to Paris with Henry Kissinger.

But his most important function would be that when the President's enemies call for his resignation or impeachment, Secretariat could warn the country that you don't change horses in midstream.

As President Nixon has said many times he would go to any lengths to clear up Watergate. Secretariat could supply him with 31 lengths to start with.

I have given reasons why President Nixon would want Secretariat in his Cabinet. But why would Secretariat take the job at this time?

The answer is that Secretariat is being retired from racing this year and therefore would have no conflict of interests. Also, America has been good to Secretariat and he would like to pay it back with some public service. At three years old, he feels he still has a lot to give to this country.

When I suggested my idea to friends in the White House press corps, they were quite skeptical that Secretariat could restore faith in the Presidency. One said, "We've had horses in the White House before."

"Aha!" I said. "But this one has a head." c. 1973, Los Angeles Times

A conservative view

Pro-Hiss lobby is not dead

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — In its issue of May 28, The Nation magazine makes one more effort to discredit the conviction of Alger Hiss. After 25 years, the liberals still will not accept the truth, to which Whittaker Chambers long ago bore witness, that their own golden boy could have been a Communist agent.

Kilpatrick

A whole generation, of course, has grown up that knew not Alger Hiss. His two trials for perjury (the first ended with a hung jury, the second in conviction) were among the most celebrated trials of the postwar period. The hearings of August, 1948, which incidentally rocketed Congressman Richard Nixon to national prominence, were the sensation of the day.

On the surface, the drama involved two men only. Alger Hiss was the quintessential young Harvard lawyer, onetime clerk to Justice Holmes, counselor to the ailing Roosevelt at Yalta, an important figure in the formation of the United Nations. He was a liberal, an intellectual, a man of apparently impeccable credentials.

His accuser was a stolid, pudgy ex-Communist, Whittaker Chambers, then a senior editor for Time magazine. The astounding accusation, in sum, was that in the mid-Thirties, as a party courier, Chambers had known Hiss closely as a member of the Communist party. This Hiss denied under oath. The charge and the denial led to the perjury trials.

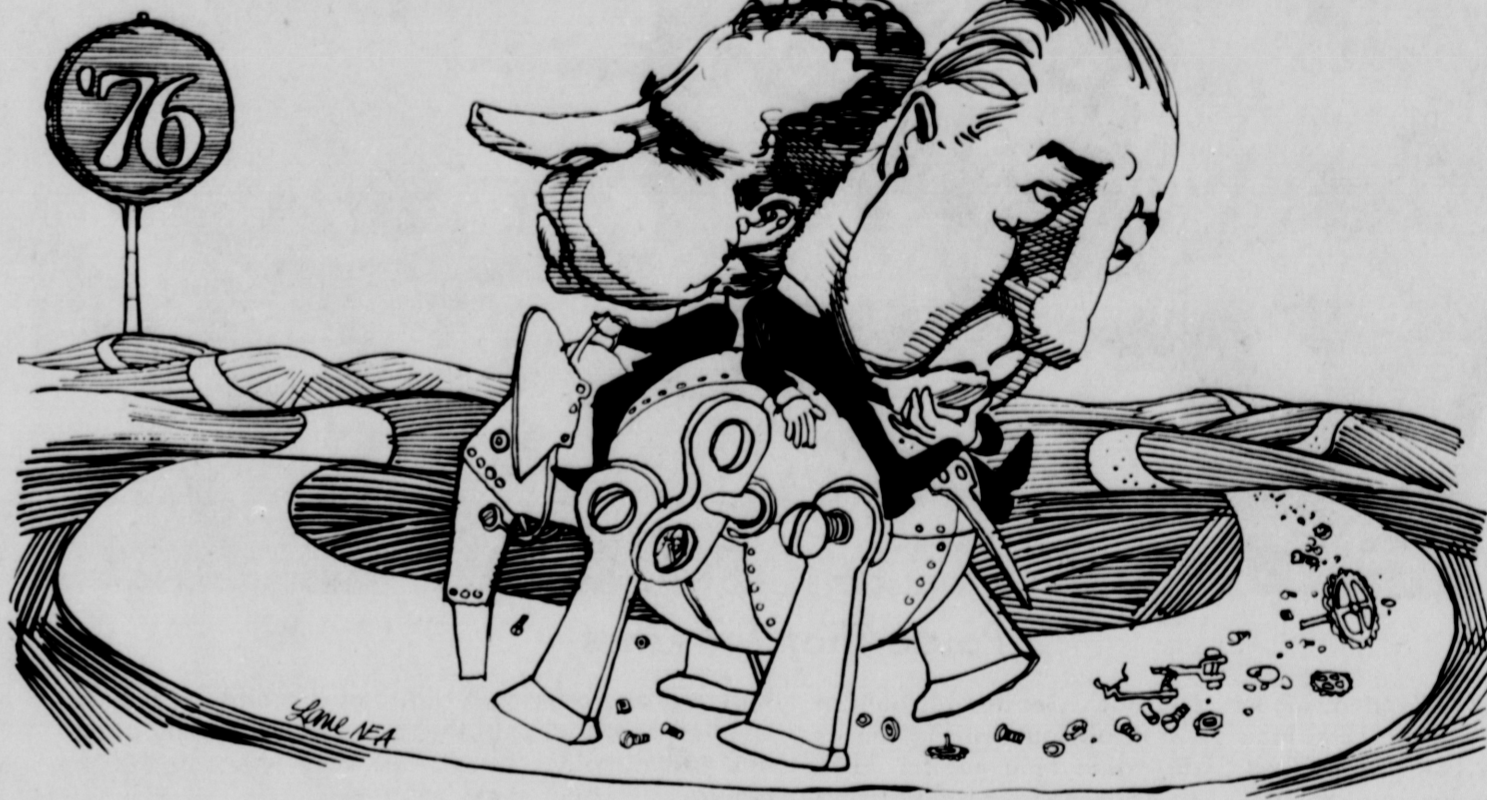

The Hiss-Chambers case was far more than a personal drama. Chambers effectively destroyed himself in order to bear witness to the implacable nature of Communist conspiracy. His book, "Witness," published by Random House in 1952, one day will be ranked among the great autobiographical works of the century. If Western freedom were a religion, and had its own hagiography, Chambers would rank high among its latter-day saints.

In seeking to establish the innocence of Hiss, The Nation's apologists, Raymond A. Werchen and Fred J. Cook, necessarily seek to defame Chambers. Their feeble effort, this time around, has chiefly to do with the purchase of a Ford automobile by Mrs. Chambers in November of 1937. A bill of sale, issued by the Schmidt Motor Company of Randallstown, Md., was offered as evidence in the June, 1949, trial. Werchen and Cook charge that the bill of sale was "fabricated."

Their reasoning strikes me as a frantic exercise in grasping at straws. Chambers' own account of the transaction, on page 39 of "Witness," conveys the same ring of truth that reverberates through the whole of Chambers' testimony (Chambers misspelled the dealer's name — it was Schmidt, not Schmitt — but the discrepancy is immaterial). The car was purchased, partly with $400 provided by Hiss, as part of Chambers' concealed plan to break with the party the following year.

The Nation's attackers make a great thing of the dates here involved. Hiss at first had denied knowing Chambers at all. Trapped by an avalanche of detailed evidence, he desperately fashioned a story that he had known Chambers for a few months under the name of "George Crosley." His "best recollection" was that he last saw Crosley "sometime in 1935. Whether it was in the fall or not I am not sure."

Who is fabricating what? Werchen and Cook should examine the record. On page 671 of the House hearings, Chambers testified that he had not seen Hiss "since 1938." On page 1079, it is "about 1938." On page 1178, "I continued to know Mr. Hiss until I broke with the Communist party in early 1938, and I saw him once again toward the end of 1938." The same testimony appears at page 1190. It was Chambers who consistently told the truth: it was Hiss who consistently lied.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Justice Department field reports from Missouri, intended for official eyes only, severely criticize Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley for his handling of police brutality cases. Kelley, of course, is President Nixon's latest choice as a permanent director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been several incidents in the last two years of perceived severe police brutality against minority citizens," stated one report filed from Kansas City last year. "No meaningful efforts have been made ... to show the public that the (Police Department) will not tolerate excessive use of force by its officers."

The report called on the Justice Department in Washington "for assistance in dealing with these situations." The field office urged Washington to make its concern known "to effect positive changes in police-community relations." However, there is no evidence that the Justice Department ever followed up on the recommendation.

Meanwhile, another report from Kansas City also criticizes Kelley's dealings with minorities. In April 1968, in the wake of Martin Luther King's assassination, riots broke out in Kansas City and six blacks were killed. A civil disorder report was called for and completed, but five years later many of its recommendations have gone unmet.

"The necessary steps, for example, have not been taken to regain local control of the Police Department," noted one report. "Human relations training should be intensified," it added. The report also recommended that Kelley's department review citizens' complaints more closely and hire more blacks. Even now, however, only 7 per cent of Kelley's 1,300-man force is black.

The Police Department has earned praise for "a number of efforts" that have improved the department's relationship with the community. Kelley, for example, has experimented with store-front offices in the ghetto and has increased the size of his community relations unit.

But one report has noted: "To the extent that change has occurred, federal funding has been the impetus. To the extent that change has not occurred, racism has been the primary impediment." Without federal programs, claims this report, "very little change since the civil disorder would be in evidence."

Footnote: To Kelley's credit, he has made extensive use of computers and helicopters to cut Kansas City's crime rate. He is also sensitive to complaints about the misuse of electronic surveillance. Under Kelley, police use of wiretapping in Kansas City has been tightly controlled and reduced.

McGovern's Security Briefings: The White House gave George McGovern's

Merry-go-round

Kelley blasted for police brutality

security adviser, Paul Warnke, three security briefings during the 1972 campaign. The purpose was to assure continuity in case McGovern won the election.

Now President Nixon has divulged that, in 1970, he authorized surveillance methods (1) which a security adviser warned were "clearly illegal" and (2) which the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover refused to implement. Thereafter, the President went ahead without Hoover to form his own private, parapolice outfit, known as "the plumbers," inside the White House.

As justification, the President claimed radicals and revolutionaries were such a threat to the national security that extralegal steps were necessary.

Yet not a word of this was ever mentioned to Warnke, who, as an assistant defense secretary under the late Lyndon Johnson, held the highest security clearance.

The White House briefings were conducted by Gen. Alexander Haig, then Henry Kissinger's No. 2 man. Warnke described them as no more than "textbook" summaries of foreign policy problems. "Domestic threats to national security were never even brought up," he told us.

"Much of the briefings were routine," he recalled. Except for occasional tidbits of international gossip, he was given little information that hadn't already appeared in the press.

One tantalizing tidbit that Warnke pried out of Haig involved India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Warnke asked why the United States had delayed naming a successor to Kenneth Keating as ambassador to India. Haig confided that Madame Gandhi and Ambassador Keating had engaged in a spat shortly before Keating's departure. Haig described the lady's language as "vitriolic."

The White House, therefore, had decided to delay appointing a new ambassador until Madame Gandhi cooled off.

Of more substance, Warnke disclosed that the White House was optimistic about a Vietnam settlement days before the election. After his last briefing on Oct. 20, 1972, Warnke reported that Haig had been "circumspect" on the subject of Vietnam. "The net impression," wrote Warnke, "is that Henry Kissinger is working feverishly for a settlement." Six days later, Kissinger issued his famous "peace is at hand" statement.

Warnke was also told of rising tensions along the Chinese-Russian border and deteriorating Russian-Egyptian relations, which he had read about in more detail in the Washington Post. He was told the secret number of missile silos, however, that the Russians were building.

But the domestic threat to national security, which President Nixon now cites as justification for the bizarre plumbers operation, was never mentioned.

The Professor's only problem after his partner opened with three spades was to decide if game would be a cinch. In that case he wanted to bid the game. If there were to be a problem in the play, he wanted to stop at a part score since his partner played the dummy rather badly. Finally the Professor raised to game.

Dummy's jack of hearts held the first trick. South thought a while, or at least looked at dummy a while, before cashing dummy's king of spades and then leading a heart toward his king.

East ruffed and led a low diamond. West won with the king and shifted to a club. South thought some more but it didn't matter what he did. The birds had flown.

"Could I have led a diamond and made the contract?" he asked.

"No, you couldn't," replied the Professor.

Some time later, when the game was over, the student who had been watching asked the Professor why he had not told his partner how the hand could have been made.

The Professor's reply should serve as a warning to those players who like to pontificate at the table.

He said, "Of course, he could have overtaken dummy's king of spades with his ace; cashed the queen of trumps; led the king of hearts and made the contract, but why upset him? He was still my partner."

Trotter officiating. The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Green Funeral Home in Mexico. Burial will be in the Elmwood Cemetery, Mexico.

Insecticide Origin Is Still Unknown

Sedalia authorities have confirmed that some type of insecticide was responsible for last week's fish kill at the Liberty Park lagoon, but so far it has not been determined where the insecticide originated.

Police Chief William Miller said Thursday morning that his department had checked available leads in the case, including one report that several 55-gallon drums had been dumped into the water. However, he said, this could not be confirmed.

Miller said that one possible cause could have been run-off from a "huge storm sewer" that empties into the east end of the lagoon. "A lot of insecticide has been used this spring, and this could possibly account for it," he said. Miller added that the theory someone maliciously poured insecticide into the lagoon didn't "hold up" in view of the department's investigation.

The cause of the fish kill, according to Jack Couts, superintendent of parks, was loss of oxygen in the water. The problem was first noted a week ago when a strong odor surrounded the lagoon and fish were seen swimming near the top of the water. The fire department at one point used its new fire truck to pour fresh water into the lagoon.

Couts said, "If it hadn't been for them, we would have lost every fish in the lagoon. I understand they were pumping about 750 gallons of water a minute into the lagoon at one time."

The pumping operation began Saturday morning and continued through Sunday, it was reported. An estimated 100 fish died in the incident.

Couts added that fishing could be safely resumed since the insecticide did not poison the fish.

Job bias against students

Recently I accompanied my daughter to seek summer employment at one of Sedalia's large discount stores. She is planning to attend Southwest Baptist College this fall. We were told that they would not even consider those that would be going out of town to school. They give priority to those who are attending State Fair Community College, and informed us that many other Sedalia stores abide by the same policy, which we found to be true in at least one other instance.

Their reason? So that some of them might continue to work part-time after school starts. This is logical and justifiable in their eyes, I suppose, but don't you think this is a little discriminatory? Just because a young person chooses to go to a fine Christian college in Missouri, does this mean that they do not need to work just as badly as those attending SFCC?

...I am not knocking SFCC in the least. I think it is a fine college and have supported it in every election ... but I just think the employers of Sedalia should consider it important for a young person to work, regardless of where they choose to go to school.

Cease-fire Is Ordered By Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon military command and the Viet Cong Thursday night ordered their troops to stop the shooting in South Vietnam by noon Friday — midnight Thursday EDT.

The original cease-fire, which went into effect Jan. 28, never took hold, and by Saigon count the opposing parties suffered more than 60,000 casualties in the intervening 4½ months.

The new cease-fire orders were in line with the communique signed Wednesday in Paris and calling for observance of the original Vietnam peace agreement.

Also following up the new agreement, the United States dispatched ships to North Vietnamese waters to begin clearing mines. Ships now in Subic Bay in the Philippines and in ports in Taiwan and Singapore were to rendezvous off Hanoi harbor on Monday or Tuesday.

Saigon government military sources were skeptical that the new cease-fire would stop the bloodshed. They said the 14-point communique worked out between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho and signed by Saigon and the Viet Cong is still vague.

The communique is aimed at implementing provisions already in the original accord signed in Paris Jan. 27, but it falls short of guarantees and avoids key issues such as the presence of North Vietnamese troops inside Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos and continued fighting in Cambodia, where there is no official truce.

In South Vietnam, the Saigon command reported more than 100 incidents during the 24 hours prior to the new cease-fire orders being issued.

In Cambodia, fighting for Phnom Penh's lifeline to the sea continued for the ninth consecutive day.

Expect Charges

In 2 Check Cases

Two bogus check charges were to be filed Tuesday afternoon in Pettis County Magistrate Court, according to Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

To be charged are R. D. McCorkle, former manager of the Pacific Cafe, 202 West Main; and Kathleen Owsley, Marshall.

McCorkle allegedly issued an insufficient funds check of $134.81 on April 25 to Gerald Reeter, employee of John Graves Food Service, Chillicothe.

The Owsley woman allegedly issued a no funds check of $412.13 March 2 to Pat O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick-GMC Co., 1300 South Limit.

Chuck Stockstill, owner of the Pacific Bar and Cafe, said Thursday that McCorkle signed the alleged bogus checks himself and not in the name of the cafe. Stockstill said he verbally agreed to lease the cafe to McCorkle on a trial basis in April.

Receives Probation In Break-in Mishap

Nicholas J. Domingue, 1617 South Sneed, was sentenced to three years probation Thursday in Pettis County Circuit Court as a result of pleading guilty to charges of burglary and stealing.

Domingue, 18, had originally pleaded innocent in the incident but changed his plea to guilty Thursday and was given two two-year terms in the State Department of Corrections which were to be served concurrently. The court then sustained the defendant's application for probation.

Domingue was involved in the Feb. 27 break-in at McMullin's Radio and TV Supply, Smithton, where several television sets, radios and tape players were stolen. The value of the merchandise was reported at $1,198.28.

all expenses expected in conjunction with using the new runway.

Burkholder said airport acreage has tripled and that the runway is a 300 per cent addition, requiring the extra snow removal apparatus.

Cunningham said the street and alley department budget request of $639,544 includes two additional equipment operators as well as a greater work schedule and somewhat higher materials prices. Also, some figures listed in the budget request reflect carryovers from last year for incomplete projects or undelivered items.

Cunningham said the sanitation department request entails no additional personnel, while the sewer department request includes a new laboratory technician. The technician will take daily samples at each treatment plant, test them and prepare the required monthly reports. The work is currently done by the plant operators, who must take time out from other duties.

Contractual work will be increased as the result of surveys and site tests for the benefit of sewer districts on the south side of the city, Cunningham explained.

The building and grounds figure remains tentative but does include projected work at the city garage. Also discussed was possible renovation of Convention Hall in Liberty Park. A recent cost projection on such work listed a total in excess of $100,000, it was revealed.

Tonight the council will meet with representatives of the parks, cemetery, parking and economic development departments.

Connally Reported Unhappy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A frustrated John B. Connally, apparently cut off from ready access to President Nixon, plans to resign soon from his White House post, Texas political sources here reported Thursday.

Since joining the Nixon staff May 10 as unpaid, part-time adviser, Connally has had only two private meetings with the President and, the sources said, their once-close relationship has become somewhat strained.

Connally is said to have complained to friends that the White House staff operation, in the wake of Watergate-related resignations, was a "screwed up mess" and that he could not function effectively.

One source, personally close to the former secretary of the Treasury, said Connally was likely to quit the White House by mid-July.

It had been understood at the outset that Connally intended to serve as a Nixon adviser for 60 to 90 days.

The White House said Thursday Connally hopes soon to embark on a 60-day trip around the world with his wife.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren, saying Nixon values Connally's advice, insisted the two men have "a very close relationship."

On Tuesday morning, it was learned, Connally phoned friends in Texas to express satisfaction with the way Nixon's temporary new economic policy, announced Wednesday night, was shaping up. The former Democratic governor of Texas, who became a Republican last month, was said to have indicated there would be no export controls on farm products—an important consideration with wheat and cotton interests in his native state.

After attending a policy planning session with Nixon Tuesday afternoon, Connally emerged looking preoccupied and rather grim. Shortly thereafter he boarded a plane for Texas.

Nixon is now asking Congress for flexible authority to impose export controls on, among other items, wheat, cottonseed and cottonseed products.

The fact that the President and Connally have not renewed their strong personal relationship of 1971-72 apparently stems in part from circumstances that surrounded Connally's return to the administration.

Connally did agree to be available for consultation on a highly informal basis.

Monett Woman's Zoning Proposal Gains Approval

The City Planning and Zoning Commission met Thursday evening and approved a proposal to rezone a section of land near Sedalia Junior High to be used for a proposed nursing home.

A 406 by 370 foot tract of land at 2202 South Marvin will be rezoned as an apartment house district. The former classification was R-1, or first dwelling home district.

Mrs. Stella Bolles, Monett, Mo., will attempt to build a 76-unit, one story nursing home on the site. Mrs. Bolles said she owns a nursing home in Monett and is a state licensed administrator.

Present at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swords, 700 East 24th, who inquired as to how much land would be rezoned and to express their opinion that close proximity to the junior high would create noise problems for a nursing home.

Continue To Seek Clues in Big Fire

"We're still looking and listening," Police Chief William Miller said Thursday when asked about any new developments in the police and fire departments' investigation of circumstances surrounding a $100,000 blaze that swept the Benson Lumber Co., 2400 Clinton Road, early Wednesday morning.

While the fire's origin is still listed as undetermined, Fire Chief Willas Jabas Wednesday said "a lot of questions have yet to be answered."

Miller said the presence of the two gasoline cans, which Benson officials said were unlike any in the destroyed building, was suspicious because it was later reported by Benson officials that gasoline had been stolen from the firm recently. No report to police regarding the theft was made, Miller said.

troublemakers or insubordination," he said Thursday. He would not elaborate.

Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong declined to comment.

On the other issue, the firefighters asked the court why the judges appointed Ollison acting fire chief even though Paxton and Teague had more seniority on the force, they said.

Paxton said appointing Ollison as chief was a "slant" against him and Teague. Paxton said Ollison has less than one-year's firefighting experience, while he has more than 12 year's experience and Teague two years.

Ollison recently was appointed by the court as acting fire chief to replace George (Chick) Brown, who had replaced Sisemore after his injury. Brown recently suffered a heart attack.

Walch and Birdsong declined to comment Thursday on the Ollison appointment. Bluhm said, however, Ollison was chosen because "we felt Ollison would cooperate with Chick (Brown)."

Car's Vandalism

Cost Set at $100

Vandalism to a car owned by Lorraine Norton, 1000 West 14th, was reported to Sedalia police Thursday morning by her father, Hilley L. Norton Jr., of the same address.

Norton told police the car's rear windshield was struck by a rock and that numerous scratches were found on the car. Damage to the car, which was parked on the driveway of the Norton home, was estimated at $100, police said. The incident occurred between 1 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

LINCOLN — A Neosho man suffered injuries and another man was issued a summons for careless and imprudent driving in connection with an accident on Highway 65 about one mile south of the south junction of 65 and 52, at 5:40 p.m. Thursday.

According to the highway patrol, a 1972 Ford truck driven north by Paul Krause, 23, Aurora, skidded sideways into the path of an International tractor-trailer unit driven by Edward E. Doughton, 33, of Neosho.

The patrol said the tractor-trailer rig struck the Krause vehicle forcing it into a bridge. Krause was given a ticket for careless and imprudent driving, according to the patrol. Doughton was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital, Sedalia.

Probation Period Set For Sedalian

A Sedalia youth was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and then placed on probation after appearing before Pettis County Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong Thursday morning.

Placed on probation was Dennis Worthley, 17, 1803 South Washington, charged with stealing merchandise valued at less than $50.

Worthley was charged with stealing a bicycle May 6 from a residence at 2326 South Ingram. He was initially charged with stealing merchandise worth more than $50, a felony, but Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Thursday reduced the charge to a misdemeanor.

In other court business, Judge Armstrong ordered that Richard Boggs, 19, 108 East Cooper, be bound over for trial to Circuit Court on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

The charge stems from an altercation at the Sedalia police station May 7 in which Boggs allegedly assaulted Patrolman John DeJarnette.

Testifying at the preliminary hearing were DeJarnette and police Sergeants J. V. Phelps and Frank Lueck.

Boggs is free on $2,500 bond.
